Berlin Agreement

BERLIN (UPI)—An historic agreement reducing the isolation of West Berlin became effective Saturday when foreign ministers of the four World War II allies signed a document that each described as a step toward international peace.

The new Berlin Agreement, the first since the Soviet Union lifted its blockade of the city in 1949, guarantees for the first time Western access to West Berlin by specific road, rail and river canal routes across East Germany and also gives residents of the city right to pass through The Wall to visit East Germany a total of 30 days annually.

"For more than 25 years Berlin has been a major focus of tensions between East and West, tensions which at times threatened the stability of Europe and the world," said Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who signed the agreement for the United States. "The agreement we have just signed could serve to put those tensions to rest...could become a symbol of hope for Europe's future."

At the same time the Big Four powers activated the Berlin agreement here, West German officials exchanged ratification documents with Soviet and Polish diplomats in Bonn to put into effect nonaggression treaties with those two countries. West Germany also announced the establishment of diplomatic relations with Poland Saturday.

West Berlin has been a source of friction between the East and West since the end of World War II primarily because of its isolated location 110 miles inside East Germany. The Soviet Union administers East Berlin, the United States, Britain and France administer West Berlin.

Angela Davis Trial

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—The Angela Davis jury Saturday read love letters she wrote to Soledad Brother George Jackson before the gunbattle at the Marin County Courthouse in August, 1970.

After seven hours of deliberation Saturday, jurors retired to their motel for the night. They will return to the courthouse to resume deliberations at noon EDT Sunday.

Thus far, the panel has considered the case for 13 hours including six hours of deliberations Friday.

Early Saturday afternoon the jury sought and obtained approval from the judge to continue its deliberations throughout Sunday. It had been anticipated that the jurors would take the day off.

The decision was considered by some court observers as indication the jurors might be approaching unanimity on Angela's innocence or guilt. Others cautioned it might mean the jurors simply did not want to waste another day after 14 weeks of trial.

The jury for the second day considered the fate of the black militant who is accused of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in charges resulting from the shooting.

The all-white panel of seven women and five men asked for and received three exhibits from more than 200 introduced into evidence during the 14 weeks since the trial began Feb. 28.

But Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason refused a fourth request by the jury for a copy of the three-count indictment.

The judge ruled that the indictment was not part of the evidence, but said he would have it read to the jury in open court if so desired. No such request was made.

The exhibits called for by the jury were the gate records at San Quentin Prison, letters written by Miss Davis to Soledad Brother George Jackson and eight letters selected by the defense as representative of the huge volume of "hate mail" written to Miss Davis at UCLA at the time of her dispute with the University of California Board of Regents.

Londonderry Violence

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops used rubber bullets and water cannon Saturday to prevent militant Protestants from entering Londonderry's Roman Catholic "no-go" areas.

Hours later, a bomb exploded outside a pub in a Roman Catholic enclave of the mainly Protestant East Belfast area, injuring 34 persons. A man with gunshot wounds found by soldiers on Belfast's Roman Catholic Antrim Road later died.

He was the 360th person killed in nearly three years of strife between Northern Ireland's minority Roman Catholics and Protestants.

The army also said four gunmen entered a bar in the Protestant Queen Street area of Belfast, warned patrons to stand clear or get out, and sprayed the pub with automatic fire. There were no injuries.

An explosion wrecked a supermarket on the city's Roman Catholic Cliftonville Road, the army said.

Two persons were treated for shock. Police said Protestants in East Belfast and at Bangor, 10 miles east of Belfast, erected temporary barricades to protest the "no-go" areas in Londonderry. Security forces were being permitted to move in and out freely, a police spokesman said.

The trouble in Londonderry came when one section of a Protestant march estimated by police at 20,000 strong broke from the main body and pushed toward barbed wire-enclosed barricades blocking Craigavon Bridge.

They began to tear at the barbed wire, ignoring shouted warnings from troops behind the barricades on the upper level of the double-deck Craigavon bridge across the River Foyle.

The soldiers turned on two high-pressure hoses, one spraying a jet of purple-dyed water. It had no effect.

"You'll need more than that, you bastards," cried one youth dressed in the camouflage jacket, dark glasses and face mask of the militant Ulster Defense Association (UDA).

A second later a jet of water caught him full in the chest, slamming him into a mass of barbed wire. He began to scream in long, high-pitched wails.

Pull Off Record Heist

Algerians Meet Hijackers

ALGIERS (UPI)—A young black man and his blonde girl companion who hijacked a Western Airlines plane in San Francisco Friday night landed at this Algerian capital Saturday and asked for political asylum.

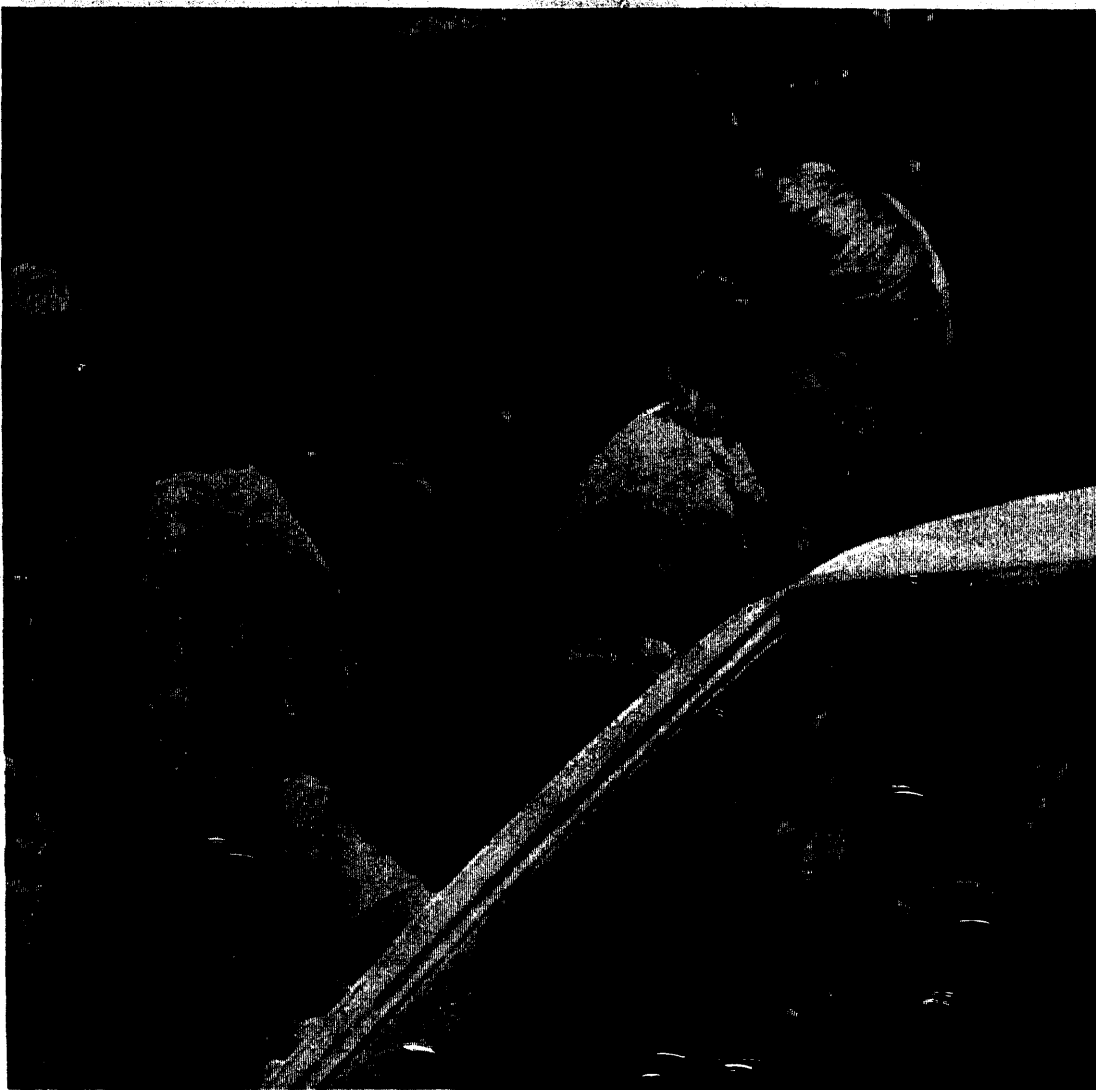

The official Algerian Press Service (APS) said the two carried the $500,000 in ransom they got from the airlines and a briefcase containing two books and an empty shaving kit. They told the pilot earlier the briefcase contained a bomb.

The press service said the two refused to give their names but said they were members of the Black Panther movement. Among those on hand when they landed were Eldridge Cleaver, head of the movement, and Pete O'Neil, head of the Panthers' African Liberation Army.

The two were surrounded by Algerian police as soon as they emerged from the Boeing 720 but were taken into the airport where they filled out immigration and police forms. They were then taken to a hotel in the city to rest until it was decided whether they should be arrested.

RENO, Nevada — Hijack suspect Bobby Heady (right) is led from Federal Court Saturday, after being arraigned on two counts of air piracy and three counts of interfering with a flight attendant. Heady, 22, allegedly hijacked a 727 jetliner Friday and bailed out south of Reno with some $200,000 in ransom money. Authorities said the money is still missing. (UPI Photo)

Report 'Startling' Inequality In U.S. Income Distribution

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—A "startling and continuing inequality in the distribution of income in the United States" was cited Saturday in a report prepared by the Cambridge Institute.

The report, summarizing a number of studies, finds that the top one-fifth of American families receive more income each year than the bottom 60 per cent combined.

Cambridge Institute, a non-profit research institution, concluded that there is little hope tax or welfare reforms can alter the patterns if past history is any guide.

The report said there has been a general rise in money income and living standards in the United States over the years. "But when relative income shares remain unaltered, this inevitably means that the absolute dollar gap between families at the bottom and the top grows each year."

This is due in part to the fact the percentage and the amount of increase for those at the top of the ladder was so much greater than those at the bottom.

Among other things, the Cambridge Institute Report said:

"The average income for the 10.4 million families in the top fifth was $23,100, against $3,054 for the same percentage at the bottom."

"The top fifth receives close to half of all wages and salaries. Moreover, it has 65 per cent of all unearned or property income.

"The absolute dollar gap between the lowest and highest fifth of U.S. families jumped from $13,729 in 1958, to $18,888 by 1970."

"The basic facts," the report concludes, "point out that traditional political reforms have not prevented the continuing maldistribution of income and wealth."

"While the government wages a 'war on poverty,' increases public welfare programs, and the country experiences a general rise in income, the absolute dollar difference... grows wider each year."

"It seems fundamentally clear that if change is to occur, more fundamental approaches are necessary."

Zumwalt Says Soviet Navy Serious Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Firing back at critics who claim the Pentagon is crying wolf, the U.S. Navy's top admiral says the Soviet navy poses "a serious challenge to our previous superiority at sea."

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, accused Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., of using "biased and conceptually flawed" research to support Proxmire's assertions that the Pentagon misleads the American people about the present and future naval balance between the superpowers.

Zumwalt's 24-page letter and analysis, sent to Proxmire Friday and made public Saturday, was the Navy's first major counterattack in a growing dispute over the Nixon administration's plans to strengthen the U.S. fleet. Main target of critics, led by Proxmire, is a request for authority to spend $3.6 billion for new warships.

In a Senate speech May 25, Proxmire said the United States leads the Soviet Union in almost every naval category and that "current building programs will keep us on top."

The Wisconsin senator challenged Zumwalt to prove otherwise.

In response, the Navy chief told Proxmire his conclusions overstate U.S. forces by including 127 ships that are under construction or requested for the future while listing only two Soviet ships being built.

"In actuality, we know that the Soviets have been building ships at a faster rate than the U.S. and that, over the past decade, have increased their shipbuilding capacity enormously," Zumwalt wrote.

"The statistics you have cited, therefore, compare a whole U.S. Navy that we would like to have in the 1980s, some of it not even yet approved by the Congress, with a portion of the Soviet fleet of today."

As it now stands, Zumwalt said, the Soviet navy has about 568 major surface combat ships and submarines compared to 378 for the United States.

Furthermore, Zumwalt said, the Soviet fleet is far newer than the U.S. Navy, with Russian vessels averaging nine years in age while U.S. Navy vessels are 16 years old on the average.

Zumwalt said he was "dismayed at the dubious quality of the analytical work on which some of your condemnation of the Defense Department was apparently based."

The data, Zumwalt alleged, "has been qualified or selected in such a way as to be misleading."

Among other things, Zumwalt said naval elements "important to a fair comparison are simply omitted."

In this connection, he said 970 smaller Soviet fighting ships, including 150 equipped with missiles capable of sinking destroyers, were disregarded in the material Proxmire used.

Zumwalt said the Proxmire analysis entirely omitted any comparison of the basic missions of the two navies, terming this a fundamental flaw in the senator's arguments.

The man was described as about 24 and his companion as about 18. The press service said they were not armed and the briefcase they carried did not contain a bomb. "A ring fixed to the wire hung from the document case, which permitted the supposition that it was linked to a detonator," the press service said.

The head of the U.S. mission in Algeria, William Eagleton, conferred with officials from the foreign ministry and security forces but the results of the discussion were not disclosed.

The United States and Algeria broke off diplomatic relations in 1967. The Black Panther movement has since set up its international headquarters in the city.

A Western Airlines spokesman in Los Angeles said the U.S. State Department is negotiating for the return of the money—which was paid in bills of $100, $50 and $20.

The spokesman said the plane and the crew would leave later in the day for Madrid, where they will rest overnight. (Turn To Page 32) (See "Algerians")

But Where's The Money?

MIAMI (UPI)—Frederik W. Hahneman, tight-lipped and grim, arrived in the United States Saturday to face charges of hijacking an Eastern Airlines jet May 6 and parachuting over Honduras with $303,000 ransom money.

Hahneman, who had given himself up earlier Saturday in Honduras, was escorted off an Eastern Airlines DC9 at Miami International Airport by FBI agents who had gone to Honduras to pick him up.

An Eastern Airlines spokesman said the ransom money has not been recovered, but the search for it is continuing.

Hahneman, wearing a soiled green short-sleeved shirt and gray cotton work pants, was rushed through a crowd of newsmen who shouted, "where's the money?" He did not respond and was hustled into a waiting car for the ride to the Miami office of the FBI. Hahneman was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Michael J. Osman on charges of air piracy and kidnapping.

Jerry Full, a public relations spokesman for Eastern, said an anonymous person tipped Eastern in Miami about Hahneman's whereabouts last weekend. Full said the anonymous person would collect the $25,000 reward offered by Eastern for information leading to the capture of the hijacker.

William R. Howard, a senior vice president of Eastern who accompanied Hahneman and the four FBI agents who brought him from Honduras to Miami, said the accused hijacker was "meek and courteous, so far as anything I saw."

Another Air Bandit Captured Saturday

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—A nervous hijacker parachuted to the shores of a desert lake in pre-dawn darkness Saturday after leaving approximately $45,000 of $200,000 ransom on a United Air Lines 727 jetliner and apparently losing the rest on his way down.

Six hours later police arrested an injured, half-nude suspect while staking out a 1968 sports car parked off a dirt road on the east shore of Washoe Lake, about 30 miles south of this gambling center in western Nevada.

The suspect was identified as Robb D. Heady, 22, a recently discharged paratrooper who served in Vietnam. He had been working as a parking lot attendant in Reno while attending Western Nevada Community College.

Police staking out the suspicious sports car parked in an isolated area of sagebrush said they saw Heady walk up the road and remove car keys from under a rock.

McGovern Claims Tide With Him

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. George McGovern rode a campaign train on a whistlestop tour Saturday, claiming the political tide is with him while Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey hunted presidential primary votes in Los Angeles.

Humphrey told blacks and union men he is the only proven "old friend" they have on the ballot in Tuesday's crucial California election.

McGovern had the momentum and was the heavy favorite three days before the balloting in a primary in which the prize may be the Democratic nomination for the White House.

McGovern and Humphrey meet again Sunday in a national television interview—but this time, they'll have company. The two top contenders appeared on CBS and NBC interview programs earlier. Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York since has won a court order in Washington for equal time before the primary.

The American Broadcasting Co. then invited her, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Mrs. George C. Wallace to join McGovern and Humphrey in a Sunday appearance on "Issues and Answers."

Pay Record Ransom For Industrialist

CARACAS (UPI)—The family of Carlos Dominguez Saturday paid a record $1,135,000 ransom for the release of the 68-year-old Venezuelan industrialist who was kidnapped Thursday night.

Dominguez, however, had not been released almost 48 hours after his abduction.

A member of the family said that the ransom had been left at a predetermined point in the Venezuelan capital but no further details were given.

One of the industrialist's sons, Carlos Alberto Dominguez, who apparently met with his father's kidnappers earlier Saturday, asked the Venezuelan government and police not to intervene in the case. There was no immediate indication who kidnapped Dominguez. Some reports said Dominguez was kidnapped by leftist extremists while other sources said no organization was involved.

Two urban guerrillas were killed in a gunfight with police officers in front of Dominguez's home Friday. There has been no official connection, however, between the slain guerrillas and the kidnapping.

The ransom is almost twice the amount paid in the United States in 1963 by the parents of Bobby Greenlease. The Greenlease ransom is the world record by the Record Book.

Now It's Attila The U.S. Tourist

The strange species known as Tourist Americanus "may be less dangerous to the civilized world than Attila, but not much."

The charge is made by author John Keats, writing in Travel and Leisure magazine. In an article called "The Great American Vandal," he ticks off a list of tourist crimes committed by Americans. The samples include:

— Partial destruction of the new John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts shortly after its opening in the nation's capital, where tourists dismantled the chandeliers, pried the faucets off bathroom basins, stole the silverware from the restaurants, paintings from the walls and cut swatches out of carpet and draperies for souvenirs and in all did some $1.5 million worth of damage.

— The irretrievable loss of several geysers and the Morning Glory Pool in Yellowstone Park because tourists could not resist the temptation to clog the vents with coins, stones and logs.

— Graffiti at the Grand Canyon, where one ranger caught a family spraying their names on the rocks and was told, "We thought this was what everybody did. The rocks are for everybody, aren't they?"

In addition to our national parks, our historic sites and museums are particular targets of our touring barbarians, which accounts, says Keats, "for the fact that so much of our heritage is behind velvet ropes and iron bars or in glass cases and is only seen through a screen of uniformed guards."

It is bad enough that American tourists "foul their own nests," he says. "But worse, thanks to the creation of cheap jet travel, that our affluent barbarians now commit their nuisances on a worldwide scale."

He admits that American tourists are not the only ones who can be indicted: "The German yields to no one when it comes to selfishness, nor is the Belgian far behind."

The British Lord Elgin, it will be remembered, sent home whole shiploads of marbles which once adorned the Acropolis in Athens.

But Americans are the worst of all, claims Keats, if only because there are so many of them.

Wallace At Miami Beach

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, though hors de combat as a result of being shot, wants it known that he is not out of the presidential race. He made a special point of telling newsmen, from his hospital bed, that he intends to be on hand for the Democratic national convention in Miami Beach and remains a contender for the nomination.

Another facet of the matter is that Wallace has been promised a welcome and a fair shake at the convention by none other than Democratic National Chairman Lawrence J. O'Brien. This though O'Brien has been known to intimate rather strongly in the past that he did not consider Wallace a bona fide candidate for the aforementioned nomination.

So it appears that Wallace, who keeps doing well in the party primaries to the consternation of many of the faithful, will swing some weight at Miami Beach. Still, one important question remains unanswered: Having swung his weight, will he then support the Democratic nominee, no matter who he may be? It's a question that must be giving the leadership some troubled moments.

William J. Kuhfuss of Mackinaw, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, will address the annual meeting of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, at the Dunlap hotel Monday evening.

Dr. Victor H. Sheppard, head of the MacMurray College department of education, was named honorary alumnus of the MacMurray College for Men at its first alumni banquet held Friday evening.

Communication

To the Editor:

Although I also agree it is much too easy to acquire a gun in our country, I think your attack on the "right to bear arms" argument (a feeble argument) is a bit oversimplified.

You say the "citizen with his rifle hanging above the fireplace" is an anachronism. I have to regard him as an American phenomenon. Perhaps if there had been more citizens "with rifle hanging above the fireplace" in Germany, Italy, China, Japan, Korea and southeast Asia, many of our citizens could have stayed home during the last 70 years. But owning a gun is either very expensive or simply not allowed to most of the world's peoples. The guns and army are controlled by a local tyrant. How much trouble would King George have had in enforcing his rule on an unarmed colonial populace?

I believe the founding fathers' concept of a "well regulated militia" was a civilian controlled, citizen army, one in which civilians served when necessary but had homes, farms and jobs to return to when the fighting was done. If our President has his way, we will someday do away with the citizen soldier and replace him with a professional army. Would this army's loyalties be with the President, the Congress, the citizenry? Perhaps, as in some Latin and South American countries, who governs would be determined by the military.

We would all like to think that we are more advanced than the rest of the world and that it can't happen here. Our national defense may be secured by this "complex and far flung national defense establishment" but it is still run by men.

Sincerely,
Lynne Senefelder

By ARNOLD R. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) —The big presidential primaries have one more day in the political sun, and it seems certain they will not tell us who will be the Democratic candidate for President this year.

But they certainly have told us who won't be. Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien of the Democratic National Committee still is talking about a dozen candidates for the nomination, but he knows well that the field is barely one third that large.

Sens. George S. McGovern and Hubert H. Humphrey are at the top of the list. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie remains as an outside possibility. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will be a possible until he endorses someone else or someone else wins the nomination.

That really is all.

Rules Wallace Out
Gov. George C. Wallace is an important figure in this year's presidential picture, but he is not a possible Democratic nominee. Neither is Sen. Henry M. Jackson nor Mayor John V. Lindsay nor Rep. Wilbur B. Mills. Rep. Shirley Chisholm, Sen. Vance Hartke, Mayor Sam Yorty and Rep. Patsy Mink never were.

But think what the 1972 primaries have accomplished. First, they disclosed that when politicians and political writers declared that Muskie was the undisputed front-runner for the nomination, they didn't know what they were talking about.

Second, the primaries made clear that Lindsay had more to do than simply announce that he was a Democrat instead of a Republican in order to get the party's presidential nomination. This obviously was not the year for charisma.

Mills Ignored
Third, they determined that the Democratic primary voters were not looking for a Cold War Democrat to carry their banner. (Jackson simply raised no interest.)

Fourth, they laid to rest any idea that a really influential, intelligent political figure impresses the voters. (No one cared about Mills.)

Finally—and this fact is not materially changed by the attempt on his life—the primaries showed Wallace has an impressive following, even in the North, but not the really tornadic force he would need to actually turn the Democratic party from the liberal course it has followed for 40 years. At this point, Wallace is a problem rather than a solution for the Democrats.

It might be said that the primaries did create McGovern as a really hot candidate after being regarded during more than a year of campaigning as a humbling oddball, and that they proved Humphrey still has some of that old vote-getting magic.

Muskie Rides
That still does not tell anyone which of the two senators will be the nominee—or even if either of them will be. Kennedy still is there, still draftable. So is Muskie, primary flops and all, with some delegates in pocket and at least the paper pledges of a lot of supposedly powerful party leaders.

McGovern is supposed to be the surprise, the product of the primary system. He was a surprise because a lot of the experts wrote him off without checking to find out what kind of organizations he was building in the primary—and convention—states and what impact his campaign was having. It was one glance at war protest and another at South Dakota, followed by a forget-it conclusion.

Humphrey was supposed to have been pre-empted by Muskie. The opposite possibility did not occur to many observers. But if Muskie was supposed to be strong because he was a favorite of full time Democrats, why wouldn't the Minnesotan have the higher cards?

Washington

California June 6:

Humphrey's Back Against The Wall

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — Standing in a blaze of television light up against a wall on a city street, Sen. Hubert Humphrey was gamely trying to explain away bad third-place showings in the last two primaries before the big one in California June 6.

He simply said he didn't try because they weren't all that important. But the reality is that his chief rival, Sen. George McGovern, scored two more victories and got fresh momentum for the test here with its great prize of 271 delegate votes.

Humphrey in this setting at this moment in history is something to watch. He knows he is at the crunch, that these are the climactic days in what will surely be his last bid for the presidency. He knows California is crucial to his hopes.

There is poignancy in the shifting campaign scenes as the old warrior struggles valiantly against what seem to be tough odds. It is widely believed that the ascending McGovern has superior money, manpower and momentum.

Yet resilient, buoyant Hubert concedes nothing. In television actor Lorne Greene's jattimed living room in a Los Angeles suburb, Humphrey shouted "We're gonna win!" as a black singer sang half a dozen choruses of "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."

His voice charged with feeling, Humphrey went on:

"I want to be your leader. I want to make you proud of your country. I'll give you everything I've got in my life." It bothers him that many people, especially some of the young, see him as "old hat," a figure from the past. He retorts:

"My long political life is a rich and tested experience. I'm not a man with eyes in the back of my head looking at yesterday."

He clearly believes that he deserves the fullest political reward for his service and what he considers his acute social vision. Again and again, he riffs through the catalogue of major social legislation enacted in the past generation. He claims either authorship or close identity with most items—Medicare, housing subsidies, Job Corps, widened Social Security. He adds:

"All those things have Hubert Humphrey's fingerprints on them."

At times here on the long trail up and down the state, he looks desperately tired. As if holding himself together by the slimmest of margins. But his bounce always returns.

At a rich fund-raiser's ranch house north of San Diego, the candidate waved his arm in a sweep and said:

"Looks like we're winning the war on poverty here."

After the Chicago vote on Sunday morning in Monterey Park near Los Angeles, he sniffed the breakfast aroma and said:

"Thanks for the smell of pancakes."

At a rally for blacks in San Francisco's Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church, Humphrey—stirred by some great choral singing—told his listeners:

"I've been on the firing line since day one. Where were you (this plainly an aside aimed at McGovern) when the swords and sabers were drawn against us?"

Humphrey just can't believe that all he has done, all he has fought for in his public life, should not now culminate in his winning the presidency. He has himself in mind when he tells every listener, "You need somebody who's got the guts of Harry Truman."

He is indeed fighting Truman-style. Says a veteran Democrat here: "If Humphrey pulls it off, it'll just be Hubert himself who did it."

Ann Landers:

Pothead Given Second Chance

Dear Ann Landers: Some cats who read this will think it's a phony letter but any kid who is strung out on drugs will know it's on the level. And that's the kid I want to reach.

I started with pot—a little harmless smoking. Potheads laugh when they hear the squares say grass leads to stronger stuff. I laughed, too; but I must admit that's the way it was with me. The second step was "only an experiment." I wanted to see how much acid I could drop before I blew my mind or it blew me. It was cool, man, like shaping up for a moon shot. I got everything together and then I called a buddy to sit with me in case I hit a bumper. This is the unwritten law for acid-heads. You gotta come when a buddy calls. The sinner smokes pot, but he doesn't join you in needle art.

What happened in the next 24 hours I'll never know for sure, but I woke up in a hospital. I got too much LSD on the second squirt. I ran out of the place onto the roof, trying to fly. Finally I crashed through a skylight. It took me three days to get it all together. Even then I wasn't sure who I was or what had happened. I made up my mind that God had given me a second chance to live. It was like coming back from the dead. I swore never to touch another needle, a cigarette, a pill, or a pipe, and to tell my story wherever I could get an audience of one. Thanks, Ann.—Reborn in Omaha.

Dear Omaha: Your audience today is slightly larger. Would you believe 84 million? Thanks for telling your story.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago my son married a girl we were not very fond of, but we made up our minds to accept her and we have done so. Jeff and his wife live 700 miles from here. Before they moved, Jeff promised that he or his wife would write us a short letter every week instead of spending money on the long distance telephone.

They have kept their word. I would like to know, however, why a 22-year-old college graduate would start a letter to her in-laws with "Hello" and close with "so long for now." Can you explain this, please? My husband and I are baffled.—Riverside Readers

Dear Riv: It's obvious the girl is evading the traditional "Dear ..." because you are not dear to her and she is letting you know it. Her casual close is a device for skirting the customary sentimental sign-off.

I hope the relationship improves, for your son's sake. I can feel the Arctic breezes from here.

Dear Ann Landers: You sometimes change your advice when your readers convince you you've made a mistake. I hope you will reconsider your answer to the woman who asked if she should tell her best friend that her husband is cheating.

I think it's stinking for the wife to be kept in ignorance while everyone else is whispering behind her back. What kind of friendship is it to keep your eyes covered, your ears plugged and your mouth shut?

A friend of mine has been cheated on like crazy for three months. Her husband is a doctor and he is having an affair with the nurse in his office. Everyone knows it, but the man's wife, I haven't told her because my husband has made me promise I wouldn't. He says you are against telling the wife, too. Please change your view, Ann. I want to tell her as an act of kindness.—Des Moines

Dear D.M.: Don't do her any favors. It's a hundred-to-one bet she knows and is playing dumb so she can hold her head up. Permit her this dignity.

WORLD ALMANAC

The donkey and elephant became popular symbols of the Democratic and Republican parties during the 1860s thanks to magazine cartoonists. The World Almanac notes, however, that the parties have their own symbols. Democrats have used both a crowing rooster and a five-pointed star; Republicans have used both the elephant and donkey during the 1860s.

Jacksonville Library Reviews - New Books

Harry Heusted

A CARE FOR NATURE, by Henry B. Kane. The author, a brisk Massachusetts suburbanite, has a long yard in which barberry bushes, pipsissewa, wintergreen, Japanese quince and forsythia grow in a jumble. There used to be woods at the side of the house, but the heliobores, cedars and cinnamon ferns of the woods have departed and swings and gymnasia occupy most of the space. The Kanes have a patio close to a slope that is planted in healthy day lilies and hostas, and termites and mice riot deep in the woodpile that borders the new maple orchard. Bird feeders direct dainty chickadees earthward, and nuthatches, juncos and Quaker gray doves often visit the seeds in the yard. Downy woodpeckers love suet feeders the best, but the finicky chickadees want peanut butter or sunflower seeds in the hand-out.

Whitefooted mice leave the yard for the house where they run in partitions and peek through the rooms with their insolent shoebutton eyes. One squirrel, which ate at the animal feeders, decided he liked shingle corners for lunch and deserted the feeders to sit on the roof chewing asphalt with nary a qualm. Noise from the wing files of snowy tree crickets precedes the eight hoots of the eerie barred owl while the light-stepping skunks dig for beetle grub morsels in darkness that falls like a leaf. Skipper butterflies bumping a crab spider's web are digested at once by the ugly arachnid, which boasts like a yellow balloon. Night hawks with windowpane-spots on their wings use the yard for a stopover in their migration, and chipmunks that mutilate garden tomatoes jump gaily down promising rows.

Bees in the yard fear the ambush bug with its clublike antennae, its sharp sucking beak, and the tough shell of armor it lives in. The author saw one fiery cottontail pugilist chase a loud bluejay away from her young when the jay's aerobatics approached them. Garbage pail foot treadles offered no problem to thieving raccoons who would press on the treadles to open the lids in the dark. Kane once saw a squirrel with a fallow cigar in its mouth on the bough of a pine. One semi-tame crow was a clothespin fanatic who cleared all the pins from the line on a washday and stuffed them in downspouts, which

The Cowboys Bombed; Why? Sacks Likes His Sudden Stardom

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It's strange about movies, about how some of them become fantastic successes and others just lie there. And you really can't figure which one will click and which won't ahead of time.

Take "The Cowboys," the big western with John Wayne and Bruce Dern and a bunch of appealing kids. Everybody figured it was going to be one of the biggest moneymakers of the year. It seemed to have every time-tested ingredient to guarantee a potent profit.

But it has been a big disappointment. And Mark Rydell, the director, can't figure it out, even now. He says he still lies awake nights, trying to understand it, but he can't. He even dreams about it, when he isn't lying awake nights. Obviously, going to bed is rough on him, either way.

When the film was first shown to the exhibitors, they were delirious with joy. They were sure this was the one which was going to get them that extra Rolls-Royce they'd been needing.

But, undaunted, he's thinking ahead. "The Cowboys" was only Rydell's third film — "The Fox" and "The Reivers" preceded it — but he's considered one of the best of the young directors. And he and another good one, Sydney Pollock, and their ex-agent, Bob Sherman, have formed a company.

Snaford Productions is a busy place these days, with a dozen projects in various stages of development. But Rydell says the rate of attrition of movie projects is fierce. He says that if one-quarter of them ever reach the screen they'll be lucky.

"Sometimes," he says, "I long for the old days, the simple days. The more success you get, the more demands are made on your time. I'm reading all the time — scripts, books, anything — looking for properties to do. And there's just so much to wade through that I can't make up my mind what I want to do next."

He is, he says, the kind of director who falls in love with his project and then does nothing but live it until it's done. And he has, in the past, spent about a year and a half between films — first, recovering, and then looking for the next one.

"Once I find something that strikes a chord in me," he says, "it has to have sufficient resonance to keep on sounding for the 18 months or so it takes to finish it. And it isn't easy to find that kind of property."

"The Cowboys" was. He fell in love with it, utterly. He was still in love with it when he shot it, when he edited it, when he went to the premiere. And, actually, he still seems to be in love with it.

Only thing is, the public isn't. It's tough on a man when nobody else seems to approve of his love affair.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — We all have our private little dreams. For most of us, that's all they ever are. Once in a while one of them comes true for somebody. It's very nice when it happens.

It happened in New York a little while ago for Michael Sacks. He's the rookie actor who found himself starring in a major movie. He plays Billy Pilgrim in George Roy Hill's fine, version of Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse-Five."

It was his first movie and pretty much his first anything. And there he was, at one of the private screenings. He had invited his Harvard roommate along and told him to bring his folks. And they had a limousine.

After the screening, he and his friends strolled over to the limousine and somebody else who had been at the screening asked him for his autograph. The combination of the two things — the big, luxurious car and the autograph-hunter — suddenly hit him.

"It was a fantasy come true," Sacks says. "A real trip." But Sacks isn't really a mere fancier. He pretty much has his feet on the ground. Actually reality was thrust upon him because of all the time it took between when he made the film and when it came out.

For those many months, he was, he says, in a state of limbo. He knew he had had the leading role in a big, big film. But nobody else knew it because nobody had seen it. He was forced to make the

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. (R-Calif.), whose constituency includes scores of movie and television personalities, has taken show biz problems to the State Department for an equal shake abroad.

For a rough and tumble industry, movie and television outfits have generally turned pussycat in dealing with foreign exhibitors.

The gist of the problem is that more than half the income from most Hollywood films is earned abroad. But the money returns in a trickle instead of a flood.

Goldwater has asked Secretary of State William Rogers to conduct an investigation into film restrictions and tariffs involving 50 countries.

"The elimination of these tariffs would mean millions of dollars to the industry and the entire southern California economy," Goldwater said.

U.S. Films More Expensive
Hollywood films are frequently more expensive at the boxoffice than domestic movies in other countries. Say a South American has his choice of seeing a home made product for half the price of a Hollywood film. The local flick has the edge. And no subtitles.

Goldwater says 17 nations employ a quota system requiring theaters to screen a specified number of domestic films as against imports (Hollywood).

For example, in England 30 per cent of screen time must be devoted to British films. Moreover, part of the box-office tax (including that on American films) goes for financial aid by the government to British movie producers.

France adds to the cost of American films by insisting that all dubbing of Hollywood pictures be done in French laboratories.

India is even tougher. No matter how much money a Hollywood film makes in that country, only a small proportion is allowed to return to the United States. More than $6.5 million, therefore, is tied up in India.

Screen Quota in Italy
There is a screen quota in Italy.

Without The 'Puff' You Have Nothing! Ogilvie Tells GOP

By JOHN B. MARTIN

Governor Richard Ogilvie Friday night criticized his Democrat opponent in the November general election in strong terms during a speech before a packed house of Republicans at MacMurray dining hall.

"When you strip away the phony claims and campaign rhetoric . . . you have nothing left!" the Governor charged. "I'm sure the voters will see through this blizzard of words." Ogilvie was commenting on recent claims to cut state spending by his opponent, Dan Walker. Gov. Ogilvie said his opponent had "ample opportunity" to explain his position but has thus far declined to appear before an audience and make any kind of recommendations. Ogilvie contended that his administration has a substantial record of achievement to show the people of Illinois. He cited roads in Morgan county as a part of his statewide program of improving local roads. Most of the major highways in Morgan county have had some type of improvement during the past three years, "about twelve times that amount improved in the previous eight years." He also mentioned the West Central Illinois Expressway as a project which will be in the construction phase soon. "Morgan County is losing population, I'm told . . . I think ment has been able to keep the lid on local taxes primarily because of the city share of the income tax and the sales tax. "I believe local problems should be solved at the local level," he said, "which is why these funds are returned to municipalities to spend as they see fit."

Ogilvie said he had recommended that all taxpayers pay their personal property under protest this year. He said the Illinois personal tax law is under consideration by the U.S. Supreme Court. "When this case is decided, it could mean a return for millions of taxpayers," he said. He said a proposal has passed the house to eliminate personal property taxes on equipment used exclusively for farming. "Illinois farmers are the highest taxed farmers in the midwest," he said, "and they deserve some relief . . . now."

The Governor placed strong emphasis in electing a Republican senator and two members of the house "to eliminate the stalemate that now exists." Neither party presently has a constitutional majority.

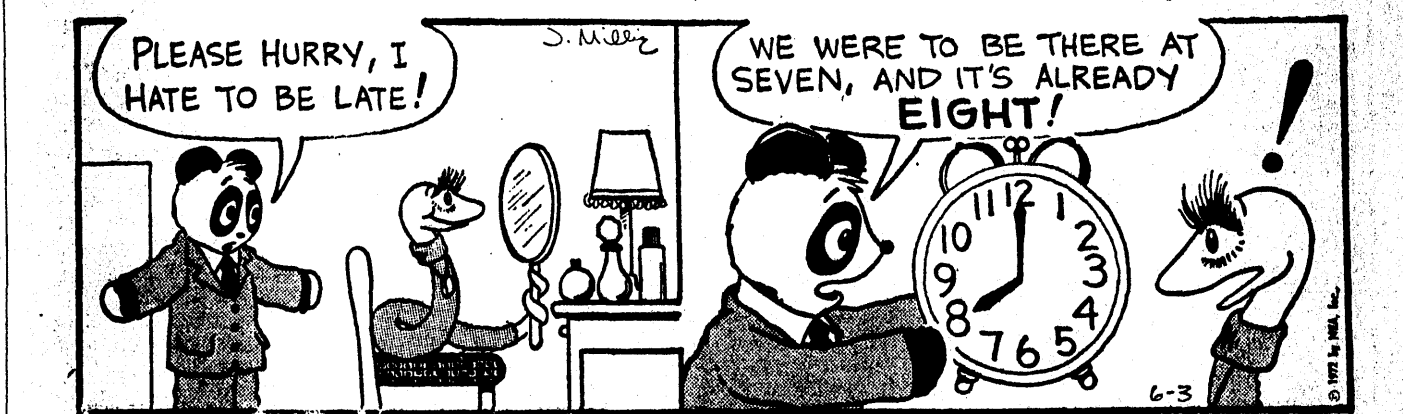

"You can make the difference," he said, "by urging members of your family and your friends to go to the polls this November. We Republicans are in the minority and every vote is important in every precinct."

Commenting on the Republican slate of state officers he said James Nowlan, his running mate for Lt. Governor, would

by Marcia Course

serve as his right-hand man. "And I deserve a strong right arm after what I've put up with these past three years." He said only three of the five state candidates on the other party have ever been elected to public office.

The $15 a plate Republican fund raising dinner was held in McClelland dining hall on the MacMurray campus. The dining hall was packed for the 12th annual dinner with what Republican County Chairman Harris Rowe described as "the largest crowd ever." Rowe served as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Edmund J. Kucharski, candidate for secretary of state and now serving as assistant secretary of state, said he is running on his record of 25 years of public service. "It's too late for promises . . . my record is there for everyone to see," he said. Kucharski has beaten the most powerful Democratic machine in the nation four times in Cook county. He last served as Cook County Treasurer. Kucharski and Ogilvie were accompanied by their wives to the Jacksonville dinner.

Republican candidates for state representative Thomas C. Rose of Jacksonville and Clyde W. Baulos of Bluffs as well as A. C. "Junie" Bertulis of Bend, candidate for state senator, attended. Republican candidates for county office and Republican city and county officers were introduced along with a number of other special guests from neighboring counties. Proceeds from the fund-raising effort will be used to assist Republican candidates in the fall election.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

SUNDAY, JUNE 4 — Born today, you have very wide and extremely varied interests — all of which you approach in such a matter-of-fact manner that only your closest friends and members of your immediate family are even aware of the great depth of feeling that accompanies your involvement in any activity having to do with those interests. Not one to blow your own horn — and certainly not one to encourage others to blow it for you — you quietly go about your own business, racking up accomplishment after accomplishment in one field or another with little or no fanfare.

You have tremendous executive ability — but nevertheless you are loath to delegate responsibility to others when it comes down to the detail work. You enjoy following through on a project from its inception to its completion, and you are perfectly willing to take the blame for its failure, should it fail, even though you are not quick to claim the success, should success be the result of your efforts. Such modesty is charming and admirable; it may, however, cost you both profit and advancement.

Although you are a keen student of human nature and, in general, could be said to understand what makes people "tick," you appear to others to be backward in your relationships with the opposite sex. Appearances are not everything, however, and the truth is that you are somewhat shy in speaking your mind to members of the opposite sex — though you understand them as well as the next person.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, June 5
GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — It is the boldly ambitious Gemini who will get the break he's been looking for today. Let another know just what it is you're after.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — A thoughtful friend can do much to make this an important day for you — but not unless you do your share and listen carefully to heart-felt advice.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — If the directions you give are uncertain, you can't expect those under you to perform well. Give time to seeing that others understand their duties.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Update your methods of operation and you may find that success is greater and quicker. Be advised by one who knows the field.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Stall if you can when another asks you for a decision regarding a proposed change. You need more time if you are to make a wise move.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) — A touchy situation presents itself for your inspection today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — If you can see your way clear to aligning yourself with one whose ideas are notoriously progressive, you may be in for exciting times.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Enlarge your outlook where your own future is concerned. There is no need and less profit — for you to remain in your own ballworld.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Observe all safety rules. Children may need your solutions to their problems — but they may be afraid to ask for them. Keep your eyes wide open.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — Dealings with others should make it possible for you to profit on several levels today. A day for social and financial advances.

PIES — Consider carefully just how much you can handle today in the way of responsibilities — and take on no more than that. A good day.

MISSING A FEW — What caused some eyebrow-raising about this imperialistic theme was Vidal's failure to have McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt at Washington's side to try to explain their part in so channeling United States policy. They were the important ones.

Anyway, it was one of those theater attractions about which it was difficult to be neutral. Nixon fans hated it; his detractors laughed loudly.

This was a flawed work, but it wasn't dull.

Paul Zindel, author of the long - long - run off Broadway "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" and the later less-successful Broadway "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," has a new one for next Broadway season. It is "The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild," and Maureen Stapleton is to star in it.

LABOR ADDS TO COST
NEW YORK (AP) — It is the cost of labor rather than the cost of hair that determines the price of a wig, says wig designer Richard Hartwich.

The finest wigs are made by hand and it takes an experienced worker about one week to crochet and hand knot 135,000 hairs that usually go into a fine wig.

Actually, Vidal had something more in mind than pillorying President Nixon. There finally emerged, through Washington, a thesis that the United States over the years betrayed its original reason for being by turning imperialistic, thus sowing the seeds for its destruction.

Washington — and Vidal — was especially harsh with the late President Kennedy in this matter. Vidal had Kennedy unable to answer, or refusing to answer, a pivotal question in this regard. But then Vidal, somewhat related to the family, has never been easy on the Kennedys.

GORE VIDAL RETURNS TO POLITICAL ARENA
NEW YORK (UPI) — Gore Vidal, who once wrote a rather good political drama entitled "The Best Man," returned briefly to the political arena in the theater, but this time he was more of a polemicist than a dramatist.

His new work, which expired quickly because of playgoer apathy was "An Evening with Richard Nixon and..."

You know immediately that this was not a boost for the reelection of President Nixon because Vidal seldom likes anyone he writes about in his novels and plays. There is a suspicion that Vidal may not even like himself.

But whether you like him or not, Vidal is never dull, and neither was this political cartoon that largely used the public statements and writings of President Nixon — in and out of context — with the intent of damning with no praise.

From "Early Nixon" — The work — I dislike calling it a play — pursued the Nixon career from the beginning to the "present" in a fast-paced kaleidoscope of brief scenes staged with fine theatrical effect by Edwin Sherin for producer Hillard Elkins.

It had the advantage of a splendid performance by George S. Irving in the Nixon role, and good work by a cast that doubled in a number of roles.

Vidal used George Washington as a sort of judge observing the Nixonian panorama while the ghosts of John F. Kennedy and Dwight D. Eisenhower sat at his right and left and weighed in with observations now and then, usually in answer to Washington's questions.

For the thirty-second year 528 girls from the junior class in Illinois High Schools will assemble for training in citizenship and government. Sponsored by local Units of the American Legion Auxiliary, the girls are known as citizens of Girls State and learn political structure by actual participation in a government patterned after that of the state of Illinois. Using the two-party system all branches — legislative, judicial and executive, the girls first elect city officials, then progress through county government, and conclude with the election of state officials.

in the amount of $500 will be presented to a citizen of Girls State who is interested in furthering her education in the field of political science. MacMurray College will also award grants to deserving Girl Staters.

Annually two of the most outstanding citizens are selected to represent Illinois at Girls Nation, conducted by the National Organization of the American Legion Auxiliary in Washington, D. C. in July.

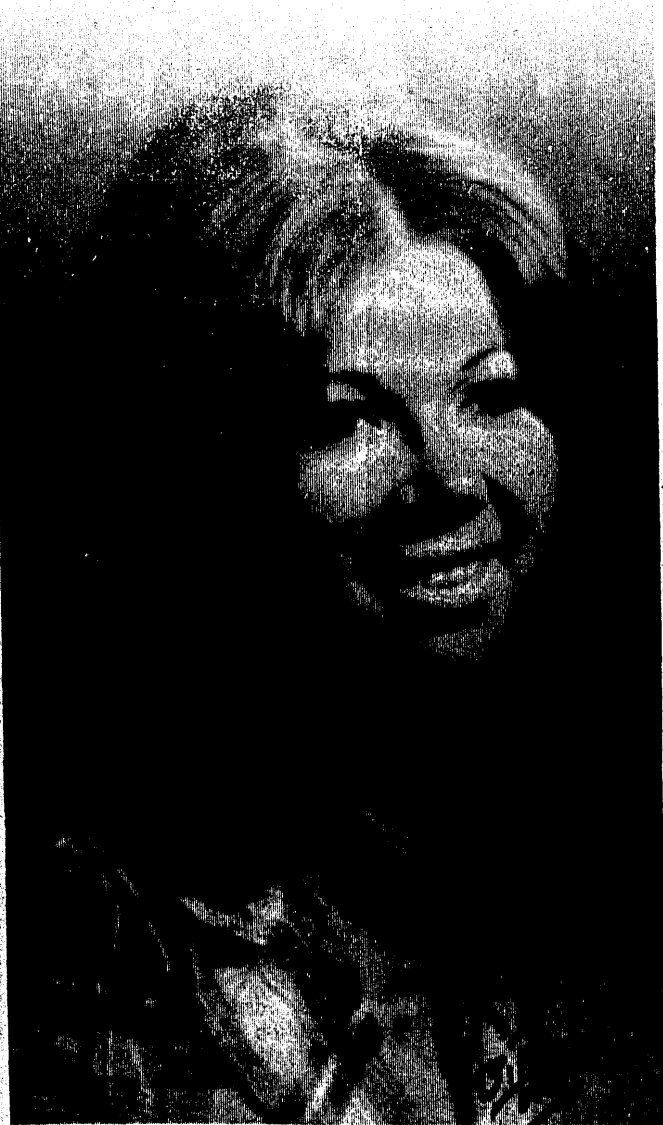

Mrs. Henricks was elected by acclamation as State President at the 52nd Department (State) Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary in July 1971.

Since last fall for Auxiliary programming and official visits, she has traveled extensively, throughout the state, covering it entirely in the Fall Workshop Program for members, then visiting many of the hospitals, V.A. State and County for the Auxiliary's Christmas Gift Shop Program wherein contributions from local Units permit hospitalized veterans to select gifts for members of their families at no cost to themselves.

As her special project, Mrs. Henricks encouraged donations to the Auxiliary Loan and Scholarship Fund for added scholarships to sons and daughters of veterans and for a special Illini Girls' State Scholarship to one of the Girl Staters at the 1972 session.

Amsterdam. It's a wonderful city. Small streets hurry in and out and twist in among themselves. There are many quaint little shops, baroque buildings, much local color. Canals intersect the city unexpectedly; barges wait for traffic lights. See Rembrandt's house, the House of the Sculptured Heads. Enjoy the lapse of centuries to be found in the buoys on the outskirts of the city. Amsterdam. It's an experience you won't forget.

Ladies Day Golf News

A long time ago I was told, "It's not how you drive, but how you arrive." Many of you have heard me say this many times. You can have a bad drive, but you can recover and hole out in good shape. Chipping to the green and the putting are very important for a low score. One of our members learned this lesson the hard way last Wednesday when she came in with 48 putts. Tsk. Tsk. Tsk.

The winners for last week are as follows: 9 Holes: Low putts — Margaret Bellatti — 16. Class A: Dorothy Busche with 7 penalty strokes. Class B: Greta Snow — with 10 penalty strokes.

18 Holes: Low putts: Sally Harris with 31. Class A: Edith Elliott with 3 penalty strokes (congratulations). Class B: Verna Duewer with 9 penalty strokes. A point of information, the most penalty strokes were 23 times.

Maxine Cumby had a chip in and the birdies were flying all over the place. Betty Brown had two, one on No. 7 and one on No. 11 and Mary Ellen Glison had one on No. 11. Verna Duewer had one on No. 16.

There were five of us that went to Spring Lake C.C. in Quincy on Wednesday to their guest day. It was a little cool, but the sun was beautiful as was the golf course. There was a total of 108 women attending. Ruth Linebaugh and Gratia Coultas tied for low net and Fran Chumley had low gross for the Jacksonville girls. While I am on this subject I just can't understand why more of you don't attend these out of town guest days. It is a lot of fun to play different courses and meet new people. We will be having two more guest days away from home, one at Pittsfield and other at Nichols Park. Why don't you try it, you may like it.

The event for next Wednesday.

Pairings will be made in advance from the sign up sheet or call Betty Price, today. We hope the school teachers and other working girls will join us. The luncheon originally scheduled for 1 p.m. has been changed to 12:30 p.m. Those coming to the luncheon only, if you haven't signed the sheet, make reservations directly to the club.

There will be a shotgun start at 9:30 a.m. You will be assigned tee off holes. If enough players, both nines will be used. Come early to allow yourself time to walk to your tee.

We will try to have pairings listed in Tuesday's paper. If not, they will be at the pro shop. There will be two very unhappy teammates if you don't show up. Now for the rule for the week: If you lose your ball and it cannot be found within 5 minutes signal the players behind you to go through. If you can't find it you must go back to the spot from which you played it and play another counting both strokes and also adding a penalty stroke. If your ball is found after you have played another, you must continue to play the second ball. The solution to this rule is, keep your eye on the ball, mark the spot with a bush, a tree or something, and then walk right to it. At all cost, have a good time golfing.

See you there,
Fran Chumley

Suspicions Were Verified: Cicadas Appeared

Some of us, when we were digging in our gardens this spring, saw big holes penetrating the solid soil and suspected a recurrence of our "Locust Plague" of 1959. We murmured our suspicions to one another. Even then we were almost surprised and certainly alarmed at the dramatic emergence of swarms of the 13-year Cicadas, commonly called locusts but not the same as our common late-summer locusts. Suspicions became facts. We now recognized the day-long pulsating hum of these Cicadas, beginning at dawn, growing "hotter" as the temperature rose, and dying away in the evening. We saw the heaps of locust shells on sidewalks and shrubs and trees. Children also discovered them and built them into necklaces and designed ornaments. Holes from which the Cicadas had emerged gaped throughout the gardens. We knew.

Starlings Appeared

We were aware of something else too: Starlings were on the increase. At first we were doubly disgusted when flocks moved in quickly. Then we as readily changed our attitude; Starlings were slaughtering many Cicadas. I received a telephone call from a gardener announcing the happy news that a successful invasion of Starlings upon the Cicadas was going on in her yard. This brought back a similar experience which I had had some years ago when my trees were young. One morning Cicadas practically covered the slender branches. As I desperately wondered how I could save the trees, I heard a dry swish and saw a flock of Starlings drop into the infested tops of the trees. I heard queer sounds: incomplete Cicada cries, crackings, a kind of popping. I saw some Cicadas escape moving on; occasionally I saw dark somethings dropping into the grass below the trees. Then I became alert to the situation. The Starlings were puncturing, decapitating, and mangling the plump bodies of Cicadas; they evidently were feasting upon their "favorite pieces" and discarding the rest. By evening of that same day my garden had been cleared of Cicadas; only dead remains lay under the trees. This may sound like fiction, but it is fact.

Starlings Have Increased

Should we wish Starlings "bad luck"? Should we try to eliminate them? When they voluntarily come in flocks to the garden and feed upon the destructive Cicadas, I give an immediate "no" answer. When they rob Bluebirds, Tree Swallows, and woodpeckers of their nesting holes, as they have done, I say "yes." These are merely human and not necessarily scientific answers. There is no doubt about it: there are too many Starlings in some areas, and they are still increasing. Undoubtedly they are not valuable enough to man to justify their protection.

We regret that some 100 European Starlings were ever introduced from England into the East in 1890 and 1891. We also regret that they have liked us and adjusted themselves to our nation so well that they appeared around 1929 and 1930 in central Illinois. Although they were looked upon as rarities in our area then, at present they are already among the most abundant of our birds, and are now found west of the Rockies, north to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and south to the Gulf of Mexico. Will nature level off the Starling explosion?

Last winter during a severe period hundreds of hungry Starlings literally blackened the Pine Tree windbreak of a farmer in Cass County. This was near a large cattle feedlot. One morning this farmer found the ground beneath the Pines blackened with dead Starlings that had undoubtedly frozen to death because of lack of proper protection in the driving blizzard and the lack of food which their spike-like bills can manipulate. Starlings do most of their feeding on the ground; weevils, beetles, grasshoppers, and other insects — yes, sometimes Cicadas — supply over half their food, according to some authorities, balanced by fruits, mostly wild.

We have often been entertained by their distinctive waddling gait as they searched for our destructive insects. The farmer talked to me about the Starling tragedy. Had someone poisoned these birds? He finally agreed that nature had balanced, in this incident, the supply and demand, oftentimes a cruel process to sensitive man.

This rambling article has not solved our Starling problem. Neither does it condone nature's way of solving problems, but does it possibly set us to thinking rather than feeling?

On The House

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures
Given time, small openings in the outside of your house become large openings. And large openings permit the entrance of water that can cause hundreds of dollars worth of damage to walls, ceilings and furniture. That stitch-in-time proverb was not intended to apply to caulking gaps in the exterior of homes, but it sure fits the situation.

Caulking by the do-it-yourselfer has been made comparatively easy in recent years by the use of cartridges filled with the repair material. The cartridge is placed in the frame of an inexpensive so-called cartridge gun. When the trigger is pressed, the compound is forced through the nozzle into the house opening. It's a lot simpler than applying bulk compound with a putty knife or a cylinder gun.

When should caulking be done? As soon as an opening is spotted. Since small gaps are often difficult to detect via casual examination from caulking compound, read the ground level, close inspections should be made twice a year—mine whether it can be used in the spring and fall. These inspections should be made from a ladder, permitting a close look at possible trouble spots.

Gaps usually occur around windows and doors and wherever dissimilar materials come together; in short, wherever there are joints. Besides blocking the entrance of water, caulking compound keeps out drafts and insects. Its big virtue is its flexibility, which allows it to retain its position even when the materials around it are expanding and contracting.

It is not enough merely to apply the compound wherever there is an opening. The area must be cleared of all pieces of old compound and anything else that is loose to the touch. This can be done with an old screwdriver, awl or similar tool.

While the patch need not be painted, most compounds will stay in place much longer (usually many years) if they are painted about an hour after being applied. In purchasing casual examination from caulking compound, read the ground level, close inspections should be made twice a year—mine whether it can be used — Tom Bugos furnished his own program at the Wednesday night meeting of the Roodhouse Rotary club held at the American Legion Home. Mr. Bugos showed slides taken by him while in Vietnam and provided commentary.

Presiding over the meeting was President John Finnell who offered the invocation preceding dinner. Group singing was led by Dean Moore. Serving the meal were Mrs. Doris McEvers and Mrs. Mildred Dawdy.

Locals

The Rev. and Mrs. Dan Vittoe and family, Ralton, Ill., were recent visitors in the home of Mrs. Mabel Akers.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Day have returned from a vacation trip to Florida. They visited with her brother-in-law and twin sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edwards, Bradenton, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hodge and son, Tommy, Florissant, Mo., visited with his mother, Mrs. Harvey Hodge, Sunday.

News and views from Illinois Power Company

Energy and Environment

—from a talk to the Clinton, Ill. Lions Club by E. A. Shultz, senior vice president of Illinois Power Company.

"I want to emphasize the close relationship between energy and our civilization. Without energy our civilization cannot survive. All known forms of energy production have some effect on the environment.

"The secret of survival of our civilization lies in our attaining a proper and rational balance between the environmental needs and the energy needs of our civilization. Illinois Power Company is working just as hard as its people know how to achieve this proper balance. In the meantime, I ask you to use your influence to maintain a sensible balance between the environmental needs and the energy requirements of our civilization.

"I believe you will agree this influence must be exerted on our legislators, our governors and our President. The bureaus which have been established to conduct this matter of environmenttal control have at this time no legislative control over their activities. We have found also that they are peculiarly insensitive to the need for a rational balance between environment and energy needs. We need some way to bring to their attention, through public action, this required balance. If this cannot be achieved then power rationing for your homes, your businesses and your factories is only a few years ahead."

Environmental control system being completed at Wood River Plant

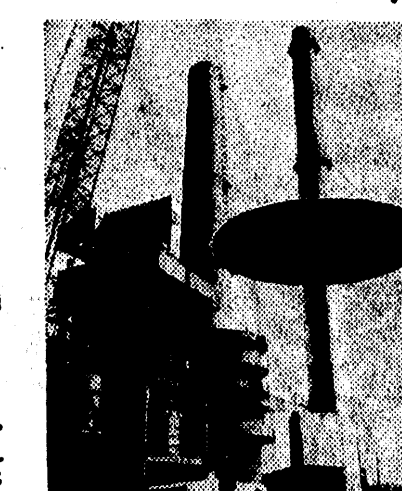

(from a press release by Nooter Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.)

Nooter Corporation, a St. Louis-based steel and alloy plate fabricator and erector, is completing major components for a reheater Cat-Ox system at the Wood River station of Illinois Power Company. This system, which was designed and is being constructed by Monsanto Enviro-Chem Systems, Inc., is the first full scale commercial installation. It will be used for the control of sulfur dioxide and fly ash emissions from the 100 Mw unit #4 at Wood River.

The reheater Cat-Ox project is jointly funded by Illinois Power Company, of Decatur, and the Office of Air Programs Federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The carbon steel converter erected by the Nooter Field Construction Department will be used to convert sulfur dioxide gas to sulfuric acid as a marketable by-product.

Construction nears completion on the catalytic oxidation system installed at Illinois Power Company's Wood River plant. The world's first installation of its kind, the system is designed to convert sulfur dioxide and fly ash emissions to a marketable commodity.

Gas storage sought a mile down

In its search for increased storage capacity for natural gas, Illinois Power recently drilled a hole nearly a mile deep near the Hillsboro area. It is the deepest hole ever drilled by the company and provided valuable information about the geologic structure beneath the surface. Indications are that the Hillsboro field could come Illinois Power's way, providing an estimated 27 billion cubic feet of gas. During the summer months, gas is taken from the pipelines and stored in the underground field. Use in winter when demand is high.

TOM and KATHLEEN MURRAY, children of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Murray of 404 North Prairie, Jacksonville, recently celebrated May birthdays. Kathy's was on the 24th and Tommy's the 31st. They have two brothers, John who is four and a half years old and Mike who is seven weeks.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Ramsey, all of Jacksonville.

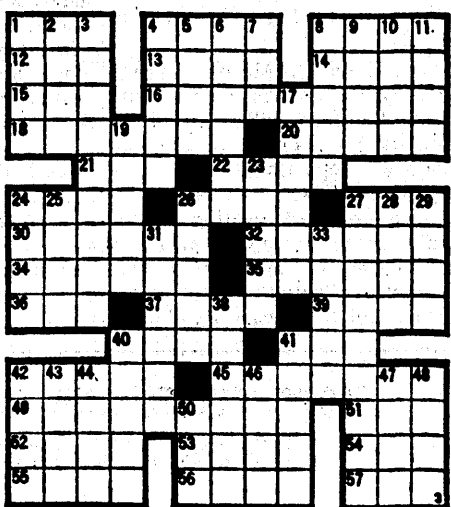

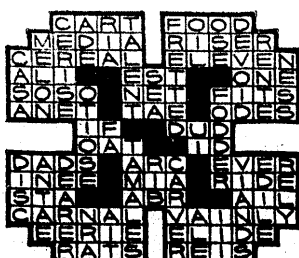

TAWNETTE MARIE and KRISTA DAWN WILLIS, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Willis, Maple Crest Lot 10, Jacksonville, are both June birthday girls. Tawny was two-years-old Thursday, June 1, and her sister, Krista, will be one-year-old Saturday, June 10.

Their grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Scott of Roodhouse, Mrs. Beulah Hill of White Hall and James E. Willis, Sr., of New Salem. Fieta Smith of Pleasant Hill is their great grandmother.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Our luck finally ran out weatherwise last Tuesday. Some of us finished before it started pouring rain but several gals got good and soaked. Hope no one suffered any ill-effects.

To even things up a bit we have regrouped the flights as follows:

First flight — Handicaps 1 through 18; Second flight — Handicaps 19 through 25. Therefore the winners for last week were:

First Flight, Blind Bogey, Dorothy Walker; Low Gross, Mickey White; Low Net, Lynn Cox.

Second Flight, Blind Bogey, Lucy Eberhardt and Judy Wilkins (a tie); Low Gross, Joyce Craddock; Low Net, Sue Williams.

The lucky number was 39. Dorothy hit it right on the nose and Lucille and Judy had a 38. Lynn Cox also had a chip-in on No. 5.

Next week, June 6th, we are having a No Alibi Tournament. Instead of deducting one's handicap at the end of the round, each player is allowed to replay during the round the number of shots equaling three-quarters of her handicap. A stroke replayed must be used even if it is worse than the original; it cannot be replayed a second time. Prizes will be for Low Gross and Low Putts in each flight.

Pairings for next week: Betty Hardesty, Prudy Bertolino, Sally Moss.

George, June Brackett, West St. Fern Hall will be Evelyn Cavan, Sue Williams, co-hostess. Note change of date.

Thursday

The Wilber chapter of OES will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 8 at the Masonic Hall. Worthy matrons and patrons will be honored.

Friday

Tuesday

Chapter El of PEO will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, June 6 at the home of Mrs. Harry Lee Hall, 1208 Mount.

Yankees Outlast White Sox, 18-10

CHICAGO (AP) — Thurman Munson and Bobby Murcer clouted three-run homers in the 13th inning, highlighting an eight-run uprising that propelled the New York Yankees to a wild 18-10 slugfest victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

The Yanks, who tied it 10-10 with a pair of ninth-inning runs, began the 13th off Bart Johnson, 0-3, with a single by Murcer and a walk by Roy White.

With one out, Munson clouted his opposite-field homer that clearly cleared the right field railing.

Jerry Kenney was safe on an error, winning reliever Sparky Lyle, 2-0, doubled for a run. Horace Clarke singled for another, Rusty Torres walked, then Murcer came up for the second time against Johnson and unleashed his homer into the right field stands.

The teams combined for 30 hits, 18 by New York, with each team using six pitchers in the 4-hour 18-minute game.

The Yankees had tied it in the ninth on run-scoring singles by White and Ron Blomberg. But with the bases loaded and nobody out, reliever Steve Kealey got Kenney and Bernie Allen to ground into forceouts at the plate, then famed Gene Michael.

Rick Reichardt gave Chicago a 4-0 lead with a three-run homer in the first inning and an RBI double in the third. But the Yanks jumped on former teammate Stan Bahnsen for three runs in the fourth, then knocked him out in the fifth with a five-run outburst that included a homer by White.

But Chicago cut the lead to 8-

Paul Owens Named GM For Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Paul Owens, farm director of the Philadelphia Phillies since 1965, was named general manager and director of player development of the National League team Saturday, replacing 64-year-old John Quinn.

Phillies' owner Bob Carpenter announced the appointment of Owens and said Quinn would remain with the organization as a vice-president on a consulting basis until he becomes eligible for the club's pension plan April 1, 1973.

"I've decided to make this change at this time because of the unexpectedly poor showing of the team," Carpenter said.

The Phillies, after a fine start in the National League season that had them in contention for first place, lost 16 of their next 17 games. They had lost six straight before Saturday afternoon's game against Cincinnati.

Owens, 47, begins his new duties immediately. Quinn was in his 28th year as a major league general manager. His Boston Braves won the National League championship in 1949, and the franchise, moved to Milwaukee, won league titles in 1957 and 1958 and the World Series in 1957.

He became general manager of the Phillies in January, 1969. Quinn had been regarded as one of the top traders in major league baseball, but last winter—in one of the busiest trading months in major league history—he failed to make a deal for the Phillies, who finished last in the NL East in 1971.

Chisox Option Bart Johnson

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Saturday optioned pitcher Bart Johnson to Tucson and called up right-hander Cecilio Acosta.

Johnson was shelled for eight runs in the 13th inning of an 18-10 loss to the New York Yankees Saturday and has displayed none of the form he showed last season when he was the Sox' ace relief pitcher. Acosta posted a 6-2 record at Tucson and had 13 saves. The Sox hope he arrives in time for Sunday's doubleheader with the Yankees.

Trainer Dave Erb won the 1966 Kentucky Derby as the jockey on Needles.

Mayberry's 2b Sparks Royals By Boston 10-4

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Mayberry's three-run double capped a six-run Kansas City explosion in the seventh inning that carried the Royals to a 10-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Joe Keough's pinch single and Fred Patek's game-tying double knocked out Boston starter Marty Pattin, 1-7. Bill Lee took over on the mound and Richie Scheinblum greeted him with a pinch single that put the Royals ahead to stay.

Lou Piniella followed with a single and Carl Taylor walked to load the bases, bringing Ken Tatum in from the bullpen. Cookie Rojas then beat out an infield hit for another run before Mayberry cleared the bases with his double to left.

The victory, Kansas City's third straight and sixth in eight games, went to reliever Tom Murphy, 1-1, who came in to quell a rally when Boston went ahead 4-3 in the top of the seventh.

The Royals took the lead in the first inning but the Red Sox moved in front 2-1 in the second.

Kansas City regained the lead in the fourth but Boston went ahead again in the seventh.

The Royals added their final run in the eighth.

Holtzman Wins 8th As Oakland Tops Orioles 4-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Epstein drove in the winning runs with a two-run homer in the eighth inning and Ken Holtzman notched his eighth victory of the season as the Oakland A's trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 Saturday.

Epstein ripped his sixth homer of the year after a one-out single by Sal Bando and made a loser of Baltimore starter Pat Dobson, 5-6.

Holtzman, 8-3, was staked to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Dave Duncan chased in Bando from third with a squeeze bunt.

A triple by Bobby Grich and single by Dave Johnson in the Baltimore second gave the Orioles a 1-1 tie. Oakland took a 2-1 advantage in the third on Joe Rudi's double and single by Reggie Jackson before Baltimore pulled into a tie again on Don Baylor's bases-empty home run in the fourth, his sixth of the year.

Expos Shutout Sagging Astros Via Stoneman

MONTREAL (AP) — Boots Day's one-out single in the 10th inning off Houston reliever Jim Ray carried the Montreal Expos to a 1-0 victory over the sagging Houston Astros Saturday night.

Ray, who had won seven straight games in relief, took over for starter Ken Forsch in the 10th and Hector Torres greeted him with a double to left center field.

After Bill Stoneman grounded out, Day slashed his game-winning single up the middle. It saddled the Astros with their seventh defeat in eight games and dropped them into third in the National League West.

Stoneman allowed just four hits, struck out five and walked five in raising his record to 5-4.

The Expos, with some help from Houston's Doug Rader, got themselves out of a second-inning jam by pulling off the second triple play in their four-year history following singles by Bob Watson and Rader.

Tommy Helms hit a dribbler in front of the plate, catcher Terry Humphrey grabbed it and fired to third for the force on Watson and Bob Bailey relayed to first to get Helms, and when Rader tried to go from first to third on the play, Mike Jorgensen threw back to Bailey, who tagged Rader for the third out.

Forsch pitched the first nine innings for the Astros, scattering six hits, striking out nine and walking two.

Gonzalez KO's Challenge For Flyweight Title

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Betulio Gonzalez of Venezuela retained his World Boxing Council flyweight title by knocking out Socrates Batoto of the Philippines in the fourth round of a scheduled 15-round bout Saturday night.

Gonzalez pounded Batoto almost at will in the fourth and dropped him with a jolting right uppercut at 2:29 of the round. It was first defense of the crown he won from Erbito Salavarría of the Philippines on a controversial decision last November. Their bout was ruled a draw but the verdict was changed after the Filipino was accused of using sugared water during the match.

Three Favorites Ready For Start Of Mason-Dixon

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Bobby Allison, Bobby Isaac and Richard Petty, three of stock car racing's hardest chargers, share the role of favorite Sunday in a 500-mile duel at Dover Downs Raceway.

The three currently are locked in a tight battle for top money honors in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR), with Allison seeking his first Grand National driving title, Isaac his second and Petty an unprecedented fourth. They will line up in the first two rows of a 40-car field.

As Braves Fall 5-2

AD—SEAVER NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver became the National League's first eight-game winner despite failing to pitch a complete game for the seventh straight time and Duffy Dyer drilled a three-run homer as the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves 5-2 Saturday.

Seaver, 8-2, scattered seven hits before leaving the game after hitting a batter with one out in the eighth inning. Tug McGraw relieved the Mets' ace at that point and gave up two hits and a run before recording his eighth save of the season.

Seaver, who had a staff-leading 21 complete games for New York last year, most recently went the distance April 28 against San Diego, when he pitched a seven-hitter. He's completed only one other start this year, a four-hitter over Chicago.

Dyer, a part-time catcher filling in for Jerry Grote, provided the winning margin with his three-run blast in the second inning after a single by Cleon Jones and walk by Wayne Garrett by Tom Kelley, 3-5.

Seaver doubled, went to third on a single by Bud Harrelson and came in on Ted Martinez' bounce to give the Mets a 4-0 lead in the fourth. After Atlanta scored its first run in the sixth on Dusty Baker's sacrifice fly, the Mets came up with their last run in the seventh on Cleon Jones' RBI double.

Open Golf Tournament. Gilbert, slump-ridden all this season and a non-winner on the tour for the past two years, had a 54-hole score of 206, 10 under par on the 7,278-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Lee Trevino, one of the game's most feared competitors, moved into contention, one stroke back, with his third consecutive 69.

Trevino, winner of the Danny Thomas-Memphis Open two weeks ago, was tied at 207 with veteran Doug Sanders and first-round leader Cesar Sanudo, each of whom had a 71.

Australian veteran Bruce Crampton and Dave Hill were next at 208. Crampton shot a 67 and Hill matched par 72 on the hot and sunny day.

There were seven more players at 209. That put a total of 13 players locked within three strokes of each other going into the final 18 holes in the chase for a $35,000 first prize.

In that group—very, very much in contention—were South African Gary Player, defending champion Tom Weiskopf, Australian Bruce Devlin, Tom Shaw, Kermit Zarley, Labron Harris and veteran Billy Casper.

Casper, one stroke off the pace when the day started, bogeyed the 17th hole for a 73. Weiskopf, who had an eagle two in his hand, and Devlin came out of the pack with 66s. Player had a 70. Shaw had a 70 and Zarley 71.

Arnold Palmer, who just made the cut for the final two rounds, managed a 71 but appeared out of title contention with a 216, 10 strokes off the pace.

Jack Nicklaus is not competing, taking time off from the tour to prepare for the United States Open Championship in two weeks.

Sanudo, a Mexican-born American citizen, had to birdie the last hole from 15 feet to gain his share of second. He's seeking his first title on the major tour in a four-year career.

The graying, veteran Sanders moved to within one shot when he stroked a four iron to five feet on the final hole and made it.

"I'm playing a lot more consistently than I have in a long time," declared Sanders, a flashy dresser whose colorful outfits have earned him the nickname "the walking rainbow."

Trevino, too, talked about his putting.

"I feel good about it now. I can see the line real good, I'm rolling it good. I just feel like I can make 'em all. And I'm making all those little four and five footers. Those are the ones that count."

"I think I can tie with another 69 and win with a 68. At least, I hope so."

Gilbert, winner of more than $60,000 in each of the last two seasons but making less than expenses this year, dropped back into a tie-at-one point six players were locked for the lead at eight under par—when he scrambled over the first nine holes and turned one over at 37.

But the sturdy, balding 31-year-old turned it around on the last nine.

Phils Drop Five Run Lead, Lose 7th In Row 6-5

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julian Javier's tie-breaking single in the 10th inning carried the streaking Cincinnati Reds to a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia Saturday, extending the Phillies losing streak to seven games.

Ted Uhlender began the one-out rally off Ken Reynolds, 0-2, with a single and took second on Bobby Tolan's single.

Darrell Brandon took over on the mound and Javier scored Uhlender with the single to left that gave the Reds their sixth straight victory and eighth in nine games. The Phils have now lost 17 of their last 18 games.

Philadelphia jumped to a 5-0 lead against Wayne Simpson as Tommy Hutton homered in the first with two men on and Larry Bowa drilled a two-run triple in the third.

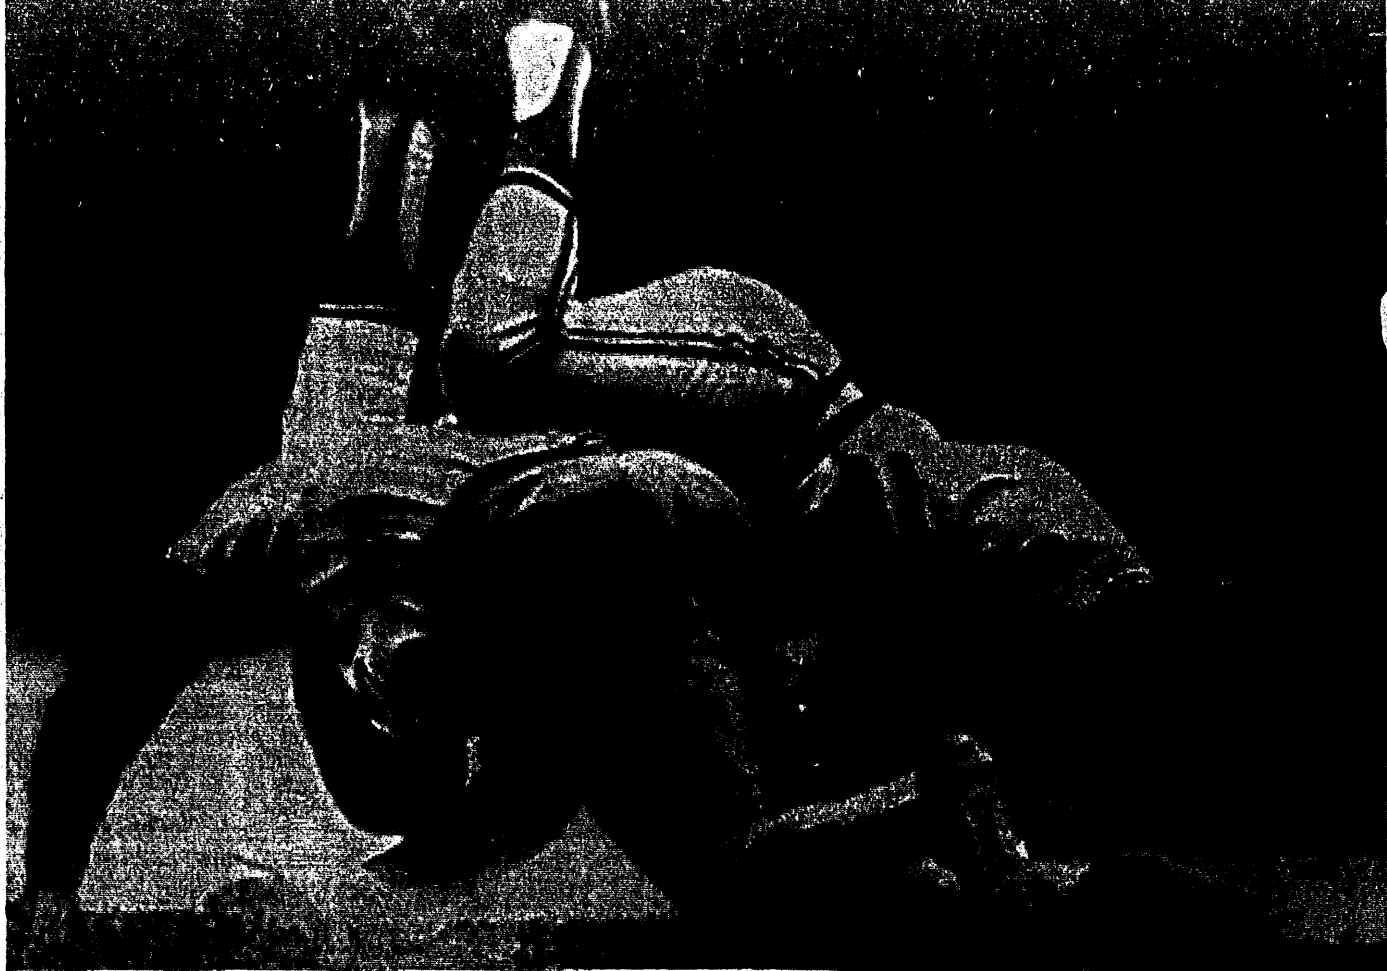

But the Reds, held scoreless on two hits through six innings by Steve Carlton, finally tied it in the ninth on Hal McRae's one-out homer.

Johnny Bench got the Reds on the scoreboard in the seventh inning with his 13th home run of the season. It was also his seventh in five games, tying a National League record set in 1929 by Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals.

OVER UNDER: A sudden stop by Sandy Alomar of California sent Cleveland third baseman Craig Nettles flying over the top in the ninth inning action Saturday in Cleveland. Alomar was caught in a run-down on an infield grounder hit by Mickey Rivers. Nettles took the throw from pitcher Denny Riddleberger and charged back to second. The Angels won, 8-4.

Springfield Park District Offers Tennis

The Springfield Park District will offer tennis instruction to all age groups this summer in four three-week clinics starting Monday, tennis pro Jack Olness said today.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association (ULSTA) courses are available to anyone in Central Illinois, he said.

Registration may be made from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. at the Washington Park Tennis Pro Shop, with fees payable at time of sign-up. Fees are $6 per session for adults and $4 per session for children. Novices and advanced beginners are eligible.

Adult clinics will be held only at Washington Park, where women's classes will be from 8:45 and 10:45 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays; men's and mixed classes will be at 6 and 7 p.m. Make-up "rain days" will be Tuesdays and Fridays if necessary.

Children's clinics will be at 9, 10, 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at Washington Park; and at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. at Iles and Lincoln parks on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. Non-play days will be used as make-up days when necessary.

The first clinic lasts from Monday through the week of June 19. The second three-week clinic starts June 26 and ends the week of July 10; the third comprises the weeks of July 17, 24 and Aug. 1. The final clinic includes the weeks of Aug. 7, 14 and 21. The same schedule of make-up days applies to these clinics as to the first clinic.

ULSTA certificates will be awarded finalists completing clinic instruction satisfactorily. Classes include personal instruction in proper play, rules, physical aspects, court ethics and mechanical ball machine practice. ULSTA instruction booklets are used in the tennis program, which is based in the 1968 ULSTA program for Princeton, N.J.

Olness' staff includes Jeff Wilday, Yale University tennis team member, John Hester, Westminster College (Fulton, Mo.) tennis team player; and James "Pim" Goff, Athens High School counselor, who has made a record in tennis.

Olness, who took over the Springfield Park District tennis program last year, is a retired insurance investigator who has been associated with tennis clubs throughout the United States, and spends his winters playing tennis in Florida. He is responsible for a 500 per cent increase in the use of the park district courts.

In addition to conducting these clinics and a preliminary "crash" clinic from May 15 to June 1 for men and mixed groups, Olness and his staff provide private brushup sessions for advanced players ineligible for the clinics. The latter should call the Washington Park Tennis Pro Shop for available instruction times, Olness said.

BEARS SIGN QUARTERBACK

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Jim Fassel of California State at Long Beach, a seventh round draft choice, was signed Saturday by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Before he transferred to California State, Fassel won a letter at Southern California as a backup man for Jimmy Jones.

Oliver, Pirates Down Giants 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Oliver's two-run double in the seventh inning highlighted a three-run rally that lifted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants in a nationally televised game Saturday.

The Giants had taken a 2-1 lead in the sixth when Willie McCovey celebrated his return to action with a two-run homer.

With two out in the seventh, pitcher Steve Blass singled to left and went to third on Dave Cash's double. Oliver followed with his double to left-center for a 3-2 lead.

Roberto Clemente then lashed a run-scoring single to center before Willie Stargell's infield single chased San Francisco starter Sam McDowell, 6-3.

Jose Pagan's homer gave the Pirates a 4-0 lead in the fifth before McCovey, hitless in his first two trips, lined a 375-foot two-out homer in the sixth.

McCovey, who had not played since suffering a broken arm April 18, walloped a pair of homers off World Series hero Blass, in the 1971 National League playoffs.

Ken Henderson belted his fifth home run of the season leading off the bottom of the seventh, capping the scoring for the Giants.

Blass improved his record to 6-1 with ninth inning relief help from Dave Giusti, who got the last two outs after the Giants put men on first and third.

Two California Prep Stars Pick Western Illinois

MACOMB — Two more California high school football stars have joined the Western Illinois football forces for the 1972 season.

Returning letters - of - intent were Gary Young, a defensive tackle, and Eugene Hollis, a running back.

The two Freemont High School (Oakland, California) standouts received post-season honors. Young, a 6-4, 260 pounder, was named the Oakland Athletic Conference's defensive lineman of the year, while teammate, Hollis, was co-back of the year.

Young was named to the Northern California All-Star team and is "one great athlete," according to his high school coach Ike Keefer. The 260 pounder averaged 16 tackles per game during his senior season and recorded minus yards for the opponent's quarterback at least twice per game.

Hollis, a 6-1, 215 pound fullback, gained over 800 yards rushing last season, scored eight times and averaged 67 rushing yards per game. "He is a tremendous blocking back," says Keefer - "he was never thrown for a loss during his three varsity years here," he adds.

The two players join California's Paul Bowens, an outstanding quarterback from Paloverde High School, and Marvin Williams, one of the state's best receivers. He will transfer from Imperial Valley Junior College.

Gimeno, Proisy Reach Finals Of French Open

PARIS (AP) — Andres Gimeno of Spain and Patrick Proisy of France, both rated unlikely candidates to succeed when the tournament started, reached the final of the men's singles Saturday in the $100,000 French Open tennis championships.

Proisy, 22, who is ranked No. 3 in France, beat Manuel Orantes of Spain 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, before a cheering near capacity crowd of 12,000 on the center court at Roland Garros Stadium.

Gimeno, 34, defeated Alex Metreveli of Russia 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3, in a battle of long rallies from the baseline that were spiced with only a few of the brilliant shots that marked the Proisy-Orantes match.

For Orantes, seeded No. 4, the loss broke a victory string that started early in April and carried him to the Italian and Belgian championships, and a victory in the France-Spain Davis Cup series. Only two weeks ago, Orantes demolished Proisy in straight sets in Davis Cup play on this same court, allowing the Frenchman only three games.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Betty Stove of Holland won the women's doubles championship by beating Nell Truman and Winnie Shaw of Britain 6-1, 6-2, in 35 minutes. Mrs. King and Miss Stove had far too much power and experience for the British team.

Mrs. King, the top ranked United States player, will meet Australia's Evonne Goolagong, the defending champion, in the final of the women's singles Sunday. They played the Wimbledon final last year and Miss Goolagong won in straight sets.

It was Proisy who dealt Orantes his last defeat, in the Spanish championships in Madrid, almost two months ago.

The final will bring together Proisy, the No. 9 seed, and Gimeno, the No. 6 seed. This will be the first appearance of a Frenchman in the French final since Pierre Darmon lost to Roy Emerson of Australia in 1963. No Spaniard has made the final since the 1964 victory by Manuel Santana.

Trevor Homer Wins British Amateur Title

— Trevor Homer, a 28-year-old English company director who never had won a major tournament, defeated veteran Alan Thirlwell 4 and 3 in their scheduled 36-hole match Saturday and became the British Amateur Golf champion.

Homer was one-up after 18 holes on the 6,633-yard par 34-36-70 Royal St. George's course with its many deep sand traps and undulating fairways.

He virtually wrapped up the title with an eagle-birdie-birdie, starting at the 25th hole.

This was the first time since 1965 that two English players had contested the final.

Thirlwell was the runner-up in 1968.

Friday he beat the last remaining American, Kemp Richardson of Huntington Beach, Calif., at the 20th hole, then went on to upset the favorite, Britain's Michael Bonallack, in the semifinals.

Richardson was one of 43 Americans who started in the tournament last Monday.

Lucas's Running Meet Highlight

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Joe Lucas rocketed into international steeplechase prominence Saturday, winning the 3,000-meter run in 8 minutes 30.2 seconds for a meet record at the NCAA track and field championships.

Lucas, a senior at Georgetown in Washington, D.C., grabbed the lead from early pace setter Al Myers of Ball State and held off Washington's Jim Johnson to become America's fourth fastest ever in the race. Lucas also became the third fastest in the world for 1972, making him a definite Olympic threat.

The previous NCAA meet mark of 8:31.0 was set by Sid Sink of Bowling Green a year ago, a race in which Lucas finished sixth. The previous best for Lucas was 8:35.0 at this year's Penn Relays.

Rick Dowswell, a sophomore at Ohio University and a native of Canada, uncorked the javelin 265-11 on his first throw to capture that event.

Second, with his final effort of the competition, was Gary Quitsland of Washington with 261-4, a lifetime best for the junior.

Sam Colson, the national leader at 272-5, was only third with 255-5.

Freshman Tom Woods of Oregon State jumped 7 feet 3/4 inches to become the fourth leading collegian in the history of the high jump as he picked up a surprise win over a good field.

Woods' mark equaled Clarence Johnson's national freshman record and was an NCAA meet mark, breaking Reynaldo Brown's 7-3 for Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo last year.

UCLA's Dwight Stones and national leader Barry Schur of Kansas both cleared 7-2 and finished third and second, respectively.

The half-mile produced another surprise winner, Willie Thomas of Tennessee, who whipped a good 800 field in 1:47.1. Ronnie Phillips of Illinois was second in 1:47.2, Tony Waldrop of North Carolina third in 1:47.4 and Tom Bach of Northwestern fourth in a lifetime best 1:47.4.

First-year runner Larry Burton of Purdue ended his Cinderella season with a victory in the 200, timed in 20.5. He was aided by a 5.9 mile per hour wind. Burton, a 6-foot-2 sophomore, never ran track before this season.

Because of a mixup in the stagger of the mile relay trials Friday, Saturday's finals of the event were held in heats, with the best times determining the winner.

UCLA, anchored by John Smith, ran 3:05.3 in the first section of the race to make it a runaway for the team title. Smith was timed in 44.9 for his 440 leg.

Smith, the world record-holder at 440 yards, also captured the 400 meters in 44.5, a meet record which bettered the 45.0 by San Jose State's Lee Evans four years ago.

Smith had hepatitis early this year and has come back strongly after losing the Pacific-8 quarter mile to USC's Edsel Garrison, who could do no better than fourth in this meet.

Bruce Collins, a sophomore at Penn, shocked Oklahoma State's Jim Bolding, in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. Collins put on a burst of speed in the final 40 yards, moving into the tape in 49.1 seconds for a meet record. The old mark of 49.6 was set by Bolding in the semifinals.

UCLA's triple jumpers and quarter milers turned on the steam in this third day of competition as the Bruins won their third national title in seven years.

The largest cheers, however, were for hometown favorite Steve Prefontaine, who nullified great tactics by Penn State's Greg Fredericks to win the 5,000-meter race in the second fastest time ever for an American.

Prefontaine was clocked in 13:31.4, second only to his U.S. mark of 13:29.8 set earlier this year. Fredericks, second to "Pre" last year in these championships, ran 13:34.0, making him the fourth fastest American ever.

Fredericks ran five yards behind Prefontaine after the third lap and said he didn't want to pass the Oregon runner until the final kick. "I was hoping I could catch him sleeping," said Fredericks, "but it didn't work out that way."

Prefontaine said he wasn't thinking about a record because, "I didn't really want to sprint because I wanted to save myself for the Olympic Trials."

James Butts of UCLA won the triple jump at 55 feet 2 1/4 inches with an aiding wind. Teammates Harry Freeman and Milan Tiff were third and fourth as the Los Angeles team ran away with the team title, scoring 82 points. Southern California was second with 49 and Texas-El Paso third with 45.

Oregon, a pre-meet favorite, scored only 32 for fourth. Pole vaulter Dave Roberts of Rice retained his NCAA crown at a 17-3, with Alabama's Jan Johnson, the 1970 AAU titlist, second at 17-0.

Rick Dowswell: 4th graf NL

Fred DeBernardi of Texas-El Paso became a double winner by winning the discus in 196-5. He finished second in the event last year. The 22-year-old senior won the shot put at 66-6 Friday.

Southern Cal won the 440-yard relay in 39.8, but Trojan sprinter Don Quarrie suffered a cramp in the 100 meters and never finished. Garrison took his place on Troy's 440 relay team.

Quarrie also had qualified for the 300-meter run finals, but the cramp sidelined him in that event as well.

A crowd of 14,500 watched the three-day championships wind up Saturday.

No. American Soccer Heads Set Playoffs

For Middle America

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—I've come back a convert. In past visits to Middle America, I remember liking it and thinking it was okay. This time was different. I loved it. Primarily because of the people.

They don't claim to be perfect by any means. They told me and showed me they have their faults, even some little prejudices, like anybody else, but the great majority of Middle Americans I met manifested a refreshingly different spirit of fair-mindedness, not only toward those involved in sports but also toward all others involved in simply every day living.

I talked with baseball football, basketball, boxing, horse racing, auto racing and even wrestling people in Middle America. I talked with the people on the street also and the one thing I came away with is that they're always willing to give someone else a chance. In my book, you can't ask much more than that.

During my travels through Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska, I found out a number of things.

People in these states respect and admire their sports heroes but they don't stand there and drool over them like I've seen some people in other parts of the country do.

I found out Middle Americans are very helpful to strangers. They'll go out of their way.

I found out that if baseball really is dying, like some say, it's news to most of the people in Middle America. They told me they like baseball as much as they always have, and that's a lot.

I also found if you want a good meal, go to Omaha, Neb. You won't beat their steaks anywhere.

There is this naive notion among some in the East that "once you leave New York everything else is Hoboken" and that everything west of the Holland Tunnel is "a hick town," but they should visit a city like Omaha sometime.

It has its own Symphony Orchestra, Art Museum, Community Playhouse and Zoo. Also its own race track, boxing arena and professional baseball and hockey teams. The nation's No. 1 college football teams is only a few miles away.

There is a great interest on the part of Middle Americans regarding people in other parts of the country, a healthy interest.

Upon my return here, many likewise asked me about my impressions about people in Middle America. Among those who did was Billy Martin, the manager of the Detroit Tigers who comes from Oakland, Calif. He gave me his impressions of Middle Americans and I can't agree with him more completely.

"They're earthy people," Martin says. "You know, they call Middle America the 'breadbasket' of our country and that's what it really is. The people there have always impressed me by the way they treat you. In the East the people have a tendency to be pushy, and in the West they're Coast myself so maybe I can say that."

One of the most interesting cities I visited in Middle America was Burlington, Iowa. I found it clean, thriving and progressive.

The local ball club, the Burlington Bees, has a working agreement with the Oakland A's, and also has a pitcher who went through an experience which, in a way, explains how I feel about Middle America.

This pitcher's name is Sugar Bear Daniels, and maybe you've heard of him.

He's 18 and supposed to be the new right-handed Vida Blue. He was signed by the A's last year, given a $40,000 bonus and allowed to travel with the big league club as sort of a fringe benefit.

During last September's American League playoffs in Baltimore after Vida Blue had been beaten by the Orioles, Blue was called in and accused of having been out on the town the night before. Vida swore he hadn't been.

But Charlie Finley, the A's owner, told Blue people had seen him at the Playboy Club in Baltimore the night before having a high old time with some of the Bunnies and signing autographs. He had even signed his name "Vida Blue," Finley charged.

Blue insisted he had never been there, no matter what anybody said.

The culprit finally was discovered.

You guessed it. Sugar Bear Daniels.

"Why did you do me that way, Sugar Bear?" Blue asked him.

Sugar Bear Daniels looked beseechingly at Vida Blue and said:

"I didn't mean anything. I just wanted to be somebody."

In Middle America, everybody is somebody.

The people there always give you that chance.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Manny Mota, Willie Crawford and Duke Sims each drove in two runs to lead Los Angeles to an 8-3 victory over St. Louis Friday night as the Dodgers maintained their 1½ game lead in the National League West.

Tommy John, with late-inning relief help, raised his record to 4-3 as the Dodgers, retaining their lead over Cincinnati and Houston, won their sixth game in the last seven.

St. Louis scored first, in the fourth inning, when Ted Simmons' single tallied Donn Clendenon, who had doubled.

The Cards got two runs in the eighth, Ted Sizemore singling home one and the second coming on Clendenon's second double of the night.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers, sparked by Paul Ratliff's three-run homer, jumped to a seven-run lead against Texas, then held on for a 7-5 victory over the Rangers in a game lengthened by nearly three hours in rain delays.

The Brewers took a 4-0 lead in the first on George Scott's run-scoring double, a walk and the long homer by Ratliff, his second hit of the season and first since Opening Day.

Mike Ferraro followed with a triple to chase loser Bill Gogolewski, 3-5. Rain began before reliever Don Stanhouse faced the next batter and the first delay, one lasting 2 hours 24 minutes, followed.

John Briggs doubled home a run in the third and scored on the decisive run on Ferraro's single to make it 6-0. Milwaukee's final run came in the fifth when Billy Conigliaro singled, stole second and scored on Rick Auerbach's single.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Johnny Bench's second home run of the game, a three-run blast in the 17th inning, capped a four-run explosion that carried the streaking Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 victory over faltering Philadelphia Friday night.

Singles by winning pitcher Don Gullett, 2-2, Joe Morgan and Bobby Tolan set up Bench's 12th home run and sixth in four games off Barry Lersch, the Phillies' sixth hurler.

The loss went to Wayne Twitchell, 2-1, who gave up the inning's first two hits. Mike Ryan homered for the Phils in the bottom of the 17th.

The victory was Cincinnati's fifth in a row and seventh in eight games. The Phils have now dropped six straight and 16 of their last 17 games.

The Reds took a 2-1 lead in the top of the 16th inning against Wayne Twitchell.

But the Phils came right back in the bottom of the 18th against Don Gullett.

Philadelphia had gone ahead in the second inning and Cincinnati, held hitless by Woodie Fryman until Pete Rose's two-out double in the sixth, knotted it at 1-1 in the seventh on Bench's home run.

MISSOURI VALLEY Votes To Keep Same Schedule

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Missouri Valley Conference voted Saturday to continue a 14-game championship basketball schedule for the 1973-74 and 1974-75 seasons.

Both seasons are based on ten teams competing for the league title. While the schedule will be made on a divisional basis, a single set of standings will be used to figure the championship.

The league also clarified its by-laws in case of two-team ties such as the one last season between Louisville and Memphis State. Under the change, if one team should win both regular season games from an opponent and a tie still exist, the winner would go the NCAA tournament. Any other tie would require a playoff and new Commissioner Mickey Holmes was authorized to spell out the particulars for such playoffs.

The conference voted to hold its indoor track meet at Drake next year, at Memphis State in 1974 and West Texas in 1975.

The league also voted to continue its baseball championship on a tournament basis. Athletic directors worked on football schedules in hopes of reaching a round-robin concept. Memphis State now is the only team without sufficient conference games to meet this qualification.

The New York Jets gained 1,888 yards rushing last season but their rivals gained 2,302 carrying the ball.

Of Syracuse's 11 football rivals in 1972 only Penn State, Pitt and Army lead in the series with the Orange.

Ray Federici of Paterson, N.J., is captain of the Army tennis team.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro won the Delaware Oaks four times at Delaware Park between 1940 and 1955.

Brown's Double Carries Tigers Past Twins 5-4

DETROIT (AP)—Gates Brown's one-out double in the bottom of the 11th inning carried the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night.

Mickey Stanley drew a walk off Dave LaRoche, 1-3, Minnesota's fifth pitcher, and Brown followed with his tie-breaking liner to right center that gave Fred Sherman his second victory without a loss.

It also kept the Tigers half a game ahead of second-place Baltimore in the American League East.

Mickey Lolich appeared headed for his ninth victory after the Tigers struck for four runs in the second inning. The Detroit left-hander held Minnesota hitless until Cesar Tovar tripped with one out in the sixth inning.

But Danny Thompson's sacrifice fly scored Tovar, then Thompson cracked a two-run homer in the eighth to cut the lead to 4-3.

When Bob Darwin led off the ninth with a double, Chuck Seelbach relieved Lolich. He got the next two batters, then was replaced by Sherman. But pinch-hitter George Mitterwald greeted him with a game-tying single.

A single by Paul Jata, Ike Brown's home run, doubles by Ed Brinkman and Tony Taylor and Aurelio Rodriguez' single produced Detroit's four runs off Twins' starter Jim Kaat.

Niles West 4-3 Illinois Champ

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Junior Bob Camras singled home the winning run in the bottom of the second extra inning Friday night to give Niles West a 4-3 victory over Alton and the Illinois State High School baseball championship.

The Niles Indians of suburban Chicago, 1964 state runners-up, closed out with a 20-3 record on Camras' single, which brought home Jim Abrahamson with the deciding run in the ninth inning.

Abrahamson, a senior who smashed a 345-foot home run in the second inning—the only homer of the tournament—led off the ninth with a single and stole second. He scored from there on Camras' sharp single to right.

Alton's Redbirds, striving to become the first team in Southern Illinois to win the pennant since Belleville in 1954, finished with an 18-7 mark. The Birds packed all three of their runs in the third inning when Bob Meyers and Bob Hansberry singled and Mike Rainier tripled them home. It was Rainier's third triple of the tourney, a record. He scored on a single by Randy Shearburn.

The Indians tallied a run in the first inning, produced by a single by Blake Lorenz, added another on Abrahamson's homer in the second, and tied the score 3-3 in the fourth when Abrahamson walked, took second as Kent McGuire was out stealing third and tallied on a single by Scott Zolke.

The score remained locked until Camras delivered the winning blow in the ninth.

Barry Mueller, senior left hander, picked up his 11th triumph without defeat with a scattering of nine hits and 11 strikeouts. Hansberry, 3-2, was the loser, yielding eight hits.

It was the first championship game played at night since 1957 and drew 3400 fans at Mienen Field.

Frazier Dispels Recent Rumors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jolint Joe Frazier took time from getting his "wheels" fixed to straighten out a few rumors. "I keep hearing from California that I won't fight in Los Angeles, because I got eye problems," Frazier said Friday. "There isn't anything wrong with my eyes," said the heavy-weight champion. "Yancey Durham Joe's manager and trainer don't want me to fight in Los Angeles. He's got some personal reasons. He don't like the rules or something."

Durham is in Spain and won't be back until June 10. Frazier was at a garage getting his automobiles and motorcycle worked on when he called a sports writer to get some things squared away. "I will not climb into a ring until some promoter brings me a contract to fight one of the guys in the top ten," said smokin' Joe. "If it's Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali) fine. Give me $3.5 million and I'm ready." Joe explained some of the problems with his "wheels" and then said, "you know, I'm getting sick of some of these rumors. It's my blood pressure or my eyes. Hurtubise Hits Race Officials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Add Jim Hurtubise's name to the list of drivers disgruntled with Saturday's Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Hurtubise was dropped from 16th to 23rd, and he's not happy about it. In fact, he says he may quit the U.S. Auto Club. The popular driver was shoved down seven places because his car was hauled across the infield to the pits after running out of fuel during the race.

"They let me drive 200 miles, nearly half the race," Hurtubise said by telephone from his North Tonawanda, N.Y., garage. "I think there is a lot of straightening out needed in a lot of places. If they think I'm out there for my health they are mistaken."

Hurtubise said he "nearly had a fist fight" with track attendants who gave him a tow.

Chief steward Harlan Fengler told drivers at the pre-race meeting any car stalled on the track would have to go around the course, Hurtubise said.

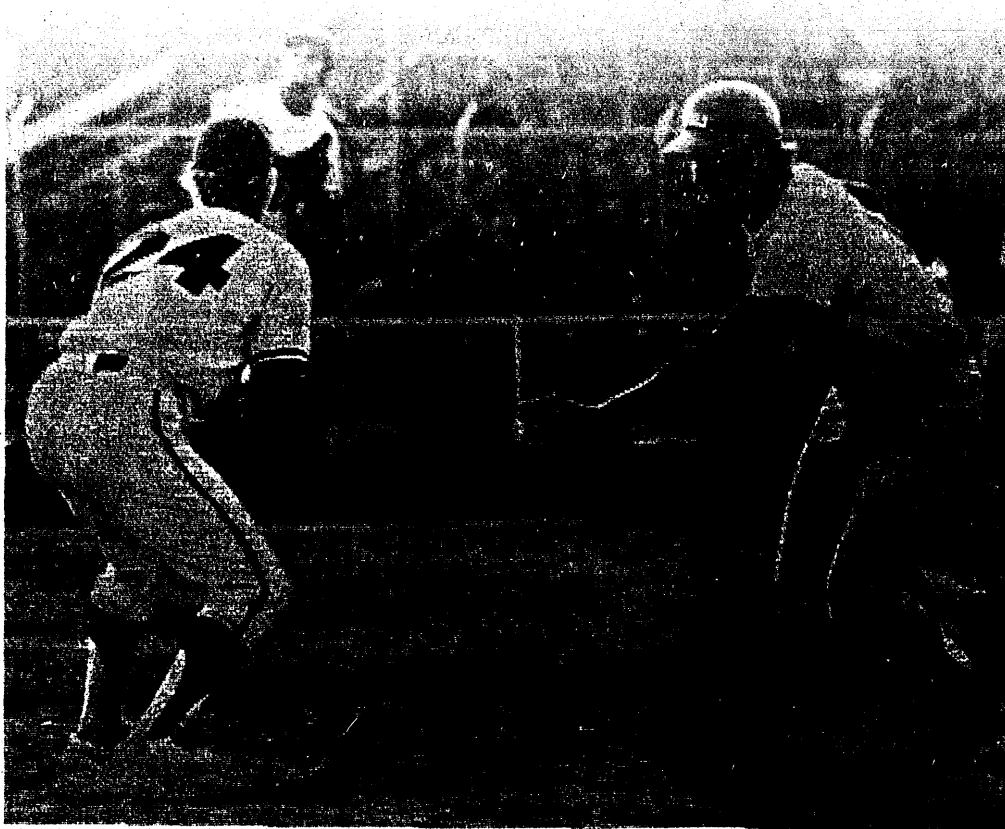

Attendants told him he couldn't go around and hauled him across the infield to the pits, where the car was refueled and returned to the race.

Big Ten Stars Set For Tour In Australia

CHICAGO (AP) — An 11-man basketball squad, representing each Big Ten school, will depart June 10 for a six-week tour of Australia. Commissioner Wayne Duke announced Friday. The trip marks the second year of reciprocal Big Ten-Australian cage junkets.

The conference squad, including one extra player from Wisconsin, will be coached by a pair of assistant mentors, Dick Kuchen of Iowa and Dave VanderMuelen of Wisconsin.

The New York Jets are scheduled to open their home football season at Shea Stadium against the Miami Dolphins Oct. 8.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Randy Rasmussen's bases-loaded single with two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning powered San Fernando Valley State to a 7-6 victory over Southern Illinois-Edwardsville in the first game of the NCAA College Division World Series Friday night.

Rasmussen's drive into left field drove in two runs and helped bring Valley State back from a 6-4 deficit.

Charles Mandel opened the inning with a walk, then moved to second on a single by Louis Diaz. Walks to Pat Russell and Marty Friedman brought in one run. Rasmussen then connected to drive in the winning run.

Valley State jumped to an early 4-0 lead with a run in the second, two in the fourth and one in the fifth on a solo blast by Lyman Bostock.

SIU rallied for three runs in the seventh inning. The key hit was a two-run single by Mike Allaria. SIU tallied three more runs in the eighth for a 6-4 lead before Valley State rallied in the bottom of the inning.

Blair, Orioles Top A's, Blue By 5-1 Spread
BALTIMORE (AP) — Paul Blair reached Oakland's Vida Blue for a home run and a double, driving in three runs, as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the A's 5-1 Friday night behind Jim Palmer.

Blair hit a leadoff homer in the fourth inning off Blue, making his second start after a prolonged holdout, and doubled for two more runs in the fifth after the Oakland ace issued three walks.

Center fielder George Hendricks got a late start on the two-out liner and then slipped and fell as he raced in to make the play, the ball falling at his feet.

Robby Grich, a surprise starter at third base for veteran Brooks Robinson, drove in two Baltimore runs—one off Blue in the second and another off reliever Joe Horlen in the sixth.

First baseman Boog Powell also was benched as Baltimore manager Earl Weaver started all right-handed hitters against Blue, but both he and Robinson entered the line-up in the seventh.

Blue, 0-2, was unofficially credited with 93 pitches during his five-inning stint, 59 of them strikes. He allowed four hits and struck out six.

Palmer, 6-3, permitted nine hits and gave up the A's only run on Dave Duncan's sacrifice fly in the ninth.

Pete Newell Named GM For Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pete Newell, a coach and executive for more than a quarter of a century, was named Friday as general manager of the National Basketball Association champion Los Angeles Lakers. In making the announcement, owner Jack Kent Cooke said, "I think we are indeed fortunate to have such a knowledgeable and capable basketball man as Pete Newell join our championship organization."

Newell becomes the third Laker general manager since the club moved to Los Angeles from Minneapolis in 1960. He succeeds Fred Schaus, who resigned 12 days ago to become coach at Purdue University. Schaus, former coach of the Lakers, has been general manager five years since taking over from the late Lou Mohs.

Newell has spent virtually his entire career in California, playing at Loyola University of Los Angeles and coaching at the University of San Francisco and the University of California at Berkeley. He was also head coach at Michigan State from 1951-54. Newell was general manager of the San Diego Rockets of the NBA and served in an advisory capacity when the club moved to Houston. He resigned the latter post earlier this year.

Niekro Tames Mets, Atlanta Wins, 6-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Niekro tamed New York on three hits—all by John Milner—and Rico Carly ripped a three-run homer as the Atlanta Braves topped the Mets 6-1 Friday night.

Niekro gave up an infield hit to Milner in the second inning, a single to right in the seventh and a home run in the ninth enroute to his seventh victory in 11 decisions this season. He struck out seven while baffling the other Mets with his knuckleball.

Carly gave the Atlanta right-hander all the runs he needed with his three-run shot in the sixth inning off New York righthander Gary Gentry, 3-3. Niekro and Ralph Garr singled before Carly unloaded his fourth homer of the year.

Cites Merger

Dolph Announces ABA Retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Jack Dolph of the American Basketball Association resigned Friday, pointing to the impending merger with the rival National Basketball Association as the critical factor.

"I believe," Dolph said in a prepared statement, "that a merger between the two leagues is only a matter of time and Walter Kennedy will be the commissioner of the single expanded league. It, therefore, behooves me to look to my own future and certain opportunities that are available to me at the present time."

Whether Dolph's statement implied that congressional sanction for the merger was imminent or that Dolph was just making an assumption was not known. Dolph was not available for comment beyond his statement.

But, in his statement, Dolph said he would actively aid the league in finding a replacement as commissioner when his resignation becomes effective at the end of the third year of his contract in October.

Dolph, who succeeded George Mikan as commissioner of the league formed in 1967, drew praise around the league from club officials. "We recognize the contribution that Jack has made in the early years of the growth of the league—he should be commended for his accomplishments," said Carl Scheer, president of the Carolina Cougars.

"Jack has done a tremendous job in the three years he's been in the league," said Bob Vatta, general manager of the Memphis Pros. "There are certainly a lot of pluses due to the commissioner's effort during this time."

Dolph, 44, took over the struggling ABA in October, 1969, after 19 years as a television executive at CBS. During his tenure the ABA gained national prominence, acquired a national television contract and battled the old, established NBA in a wild bidding war for player talent.

Dallas Chaparrals general manager Bob Briner said he wasn't surprised to hear of Dolph's resignation, given the "chaotic situation that exists in professional basketball today."

He said he was "personally sorry" to see Dolph go, but that the resignation might "lead to better things for our league."

Briner said he believed Dolph's resignation would "push the merger harder."

Briner didn't have any ideas on who might take Dolph's place, but said he would have to have the "wisdom of Solomon."

"Where do you find a guy like that?" he asked.

Langdon Insurance downed Fireman 8-6 in the first game while Winchester whipped Police 10-2 in the second Pony League action Friday night.

Ed Lowe and Jim Blesse pounded doubles for Fireman, while Dale Robinson had a triple for the winners. The game, marred by 13 errors, saw Langdon take the early lead, only to have to regain it as Fireman scored three runs in the top of the fifth. Langdon scored three times in the bottom of the sixth to pull out the win.

Winchester, staying undefeated in league play, was assisted by seven extra base hits in downing Police. Roger Sparks led with a home run, while Brad Jefferson, Ray Long, Jim Bigelow and Brian Allen all hit triples. Dan Nicholson pitched a two hitter to guide his team to its third straight.

Ralph Sides Retires From Mail Route

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ralph M. Sides of Versailles last month retired as a rural mail carrier after 31 years. Upon retiring, he wrote the letter below to Ernie Eighner, Journal circulation manager, with whom he developed a friendship.

Dear Ernie:

I have just come in from my last day on the mail route. Having reached the age of 70 I was forced to retire. When I started in carrying the mail Jan. 2, 1941 most of my route was dirt and during the time when the weather was bad and the roads muddy I walked part of the route day after day for about the first twenty years.

During this time some graveling was done and later on it began in earnest and now all my route is gravelled and I don't even need chains to make the route. At first I had just 32 miles but when I quit today I had 96 miles, and I make the 96 miles easier on bad days than I did the 32 miles years ago.

Even though I am 70 years old, I am in very good health. In fact, I feel the same today as I did when I started carrying the mail. I want to tell you what I did to keep my health as it is today. I do not smoke or drink.

Also, and this is what keeps me in such good health, I walk and run every day after completing my route. Rain or snow

I do this unless it is very bad outside. Last year when I went to the doctor for a check-up, he told me that if he couldn't have seen me or knew who I was he would have passed me to go out for high school athletics.

I want to thank you and the people of the Journal for your fine co-operation. It was better than any other paper gave me. As a result there are twice as many people on the route taking your paper than all the others put together.

Yours truly,
Ralph M. Sides

Group Protests Nixon's Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The International Council of Christian Churches, headed by Dr. Carl McIntire, has protested President Nixon's worship at the Russian Baptist Church as "a mockery of freedom of religion."

"We thought you knew that that was an operation of the KGB, the Soviet Secret police," McIntire said in a letter to Nixon.

"The man whom the press reports preached to you, Ilya Ivanov, chairman of the All-Russian Council of Evangelical Christian Baptists, has repeatedly praised the Soviet Union as fulfilling the ideals precious to Christianity."

McIntire, a fundamentalist preacher and vigorous opponent of communism, quoted Russian author Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn as saying "a church dictatorially directed by atheists is a sight not seen in 2,000 years."

"Why did you do it, Mr. President?" McIntire wrote. "We know that Jewish groups were particularly concerned that you see what you could do to help them and their people in the persecution that they are suffering at the hands of the Soviet government."

"But in the case of the Christians who are suffering just as much, we have not heard that you spoke for our cause, but you proceeded to go and honor the Communist use of religion in their attempt to deceive the whole world."

"No matter what may be said about the treaties you signed and the things which you did, from the position which we occupy we believe that the worst thing that you did was to go to that Russian Baptist church and make a mockery of freedom of religion."

"We are incensed by what you did. Millions of our fellow Christians are dead because of communism," McIntire said.

Ogilvie Blasts Walker Before IVI Gathering

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie asked Saturday night for the support of the Independent Voters of Illinois on the basis of his record compared with what he called the "double talk and demagoguery" of Dan Walker.

Ogilvie and Walker, the Democratic candidate for governor, appeared at an IVI dinner in the second of their joint debates.

In remarks prepared for delivery, Ogilvie criticized Walker for failing to substantiate claims that he can cut state spending by $500 million.

"In our first debate," the governor said, "I asked him (Walker): How can you eliminate $500 million in state waste? How can you cut the budgets of state agencies and institutions 10 per cent without wrecking vital services?"

"He could not or would not respond—and the only measurable conclusion is that he could not," the governor said.

Walker called on Ogilvie to cancel a contract with a publishing firm that he said required the Department of Business and Economic Development to solicit advertising from Illinois firms.

The ads appear in a yearbook published a month before the November elections, Walker said.

"The state will put the arm on Illinois business firms to buy ads," Walker said. "In return, the ad book and probably most of the ads will praise Gov. Ogilvie and his administration."

"Vendors to the state are the likeliest targets and they have to worry about reprisals if they do not buy an ad," Walker said in a prepared statement. "The state has no business entering into such an agreement and I call upon Gov. Ogilvie right now to cancel that contract."

Walker also outlined a consumer protection program which he said would "provide real protection to the left-out people—the poor and the minorities who are so often the victims."

Included in the program would be the elimination of confession of judgment clauses and the banning of garnishment of wages.

Walker also proposed the creation of an office of consumer advocate in the governor's office.

Ogilvie added, "I have received the support of the IVI in the past and I solicit that support again."

The governor told the dinner gathering that he has kept promises he made in 1968 to increase state support for education, to include independents in his administration, to fight for a new state constitution, to work for judicial reform, tax reform and antipollution programs.

"Many of these decisions have been difficult," he said. "And they have not been

Ordain First Woman Rabbi In America

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — America's first woman rabbi was ordained Saturday in ceremonies called "a true test of Reform Judaism."

Sally Priesand, 25, of Cleveland, Ohio, along with 35 male classmates, pledged her dedication in ceremonies at the 107-year-old Rabbi Isaac M. Wise Temple.

"It is only fitting," said Dr. Alfred Gottschalk, president of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, "that among the 36... candidates for the rabbinate, there is a woman."

"It is one of the true tests of Reform Judaism, the fact that every woman is equal with men in the community of the Lord."

It was the 89th graduating class of the HUC-JIR, which has been a center for Reform Judaism in the United States since the early 1800s.

Rabbi Gottschalk laid hands on the shoulders of the black-robed candidates and presented them with scrolls of the Torah near the end of the two-hour ceremony conducted in both Hebrew and English.

Three cantors, a choir, an organist and a guitarist provided hymns during the regular service written and conducted by the new rabbis.

Miss Priesand, who completed eight years of study, including four at the University of Cincinnati, will become assistant rabbi at Stephen M. Wise Free Synagogue in New York City.

"It's a very good job," she said, "I'll be teaching classes, performing ceremonies and working with youth groups—just like any other rabbi."

She said her decision to become a rabbi was not motivated by women's lib.

"My decision was based on four basic concepts," she said, "a belief in God, a belief in the worth of the individual, a belief in Judaism as a way of life and a belief that Judaism is worth preserving."

"For me, the rabbinate is the best way I can fulfill these beliefs," Miss Priesand is the first woman rabbi to be ordained in the United States, but records showed two other women completed school at HUC and were not allowed ordination.

Iraq Offering Crude Oil At Reduced Prices

BEIRUT (UPI)—Iraq announced Saturday that oil from the nationalized Iraq Petroleum Company (IPC) concessions now was available at its Mediterranean terminals at reduced prices.

Iraq Friday had ordered a ban on pumping the crude oil for non-Arab states. However, the head of the new Iraqi concern that has taken over running of the Western-owned IPC said Saturday that he would honor agreements made by IPC with foreign buyers.

Ghanem Abdel Jalil, chairman of the new Iraqi Company for Oil Operations, said the oil was available for sale by long-term or medium-term contracts or by immediate deals.

The official Iraqi news agency quoted Jalil as saying: "The production and pumping of oil to the Mediterranean ports is now proceeding normally. Crude oil is available at reduced and competitive prices."

On existing agreements, Jalil said: "We are prepared to meet sales agreements reached between the IPC and foreign buyers."

Oil sources said there was no indication what reduction in prices the new company was offering. They noted that a major point in IPC's dispute with the Iraqi government was that prices at the Mediterranean terminals were too high.

The sources said the question now was whether there would be takers for the IPC crude. They said it was certain that IPC would seek legal action against any party buying oil from the nationalized concessions.

North Viets Attack Base Near Phu My

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese forces attacked a South Vietnamese infantry base near the Central Highlands district capital of Phu My Saturday and blew up an ammunition dump.

The U.S. command ordered two American advisers to withdraw from the embattled city. Pulling out of Americans during the 66-day-old Communist offensive has become a sign that senior U.S. officers expect the imminent fall of a base or town.

On Friday, the Saigon high command had claimed a victory at the position, a mile south of town just outside the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 41st Infantry Regiment. Government soldiers were reported to have killed 73 Communists while losing four killed and 60 wounded.

Early Saturday, the North Vietnamese laid down a heavy mortar barrage on the base. Four direct hits on the ammunition dump sent it skyward. Phu My, the next target in the southbound Communist push that began last March, is 270 miles northeast of Saigon.

To the north in Quang Ngai province, spokesmen claimed another victory in a major battle in which 286 Communists were killed by ground troops aided by heavy artillery and a few tactical air strikes. The South Vietnamese reported only 8 dead and 21 wounded.

The battle began when the Communists attacked a base 10 miles northwest of My Lai, site of the 1968 civilian massacre.

A North Vietnamese broadcast monitored in Tokyo claimed four U.S. warplanes had been shot down in five days and two U.S. naval ships had been set on fire by shore batteries. It said one plane was downed May 31 over Thanh Hoa and the others on Friday in Ninh Binh, Hai Hung, and Lang Son provinces. The ships were hit Friday off Thanh Hoa province, it claimed.

Heavy fighting went into the ninth day in Kontum, the province capital 260 miles north of Saigon. UPI reporter Matt Franjola reported government troops attacked a Communist-held field hospital and church.

Franjola said the drive was "shrinking the North Vietnamese perimeter by feet and yards," but at nightfall the North Vietnamese still held three pockets in the city. Viet Cong clandestine Radio Liberation broadcast an alleged appeal by defecting South Vietnamese officers to Kontum defenders to surrender.

Along the northern front, U.S. headquarters dispatched record strikes by B52 bombers around the threatened former imperial capital of Hue. The Stratoforts fly above the bad weather. They flew 14 missions in Thua Thien (Hue) province in 24 hours up to noon Saturday, the heaviest bombing ever in one day in the province.

The B52s ranged as close as 10 miles of Hue, although three hit suspected troop positions inside the A Shau valley along the Laos border. The Communists answered with a 90-round artillery attack against artillery base Bastogne, 12 miles south of Hue.

The U.S. command reported that although the bad weather had spread over lower North Vietnam, Americans flew 250 raids there Friday and reported destroying or damaging nine bridges and cutting nine roads.

A Post-Memorial Day Picture Of Us

By REV. DAVID POLING
Memorial Days recall a conflict that was resolved: The War between the States. Yet such observations are not without tension, not totally free of present day differences. In May 1971 the annual parade and celebration held in Pleasantville, N.Y., did not come off. The veterans groups refused to permit the peace organizations to join in the street parade. Result: no parade, but a large peace rally in one of the local churches.

This year reflects the power of local sentiment—the peace groups joined the veterans in the community celebration. At best, ours is a shaky world. Big wars roll across Southeast Asia and little wars rage in Ireland and the Middle East. Warring, mad citizens race around our country and shoot the object of their rage.

So Martin Luther King is gunned down on a motel balcony and George Wallace is drilled in a shopping plaza in Maryland.

Public officials, celebrities, famous people are almost automatic targets for the angry, unbalanced, and demented. Charlie Chaplin lived in fear during his whole visit to America, surrounded by a private force of detectives and police undercover agents.

The rage and evil of men bursts out in other forms of violence against institutions and symbols of power and authority. In Rome, a man who will spend the rest of his life in a hospital was out long enough to attack the Vatican treasure sculpture, the Pieta, smashing face and arms with a sledge.

Last year an individual in New Haven entered the commons room of Yale Divinity School and slashed all the oil portraits of famed Christian leaders, professors and deans who had served the school and society for more than 200 years.

We live in a confrontation culture. Cities dread the arrival of political conventions as do private citizens the arrival of evening. A friend in New York remarked that he wore a shoulder holster when he went out for dinner and the theater. When asked about such pistol-packing, he said simply, "Well, I don't want to die walking from our garage to the apartment house—two blocks is too long."

The regular awareness of war and the promotion of "legal" violence by the state is hardly a curb on private passions. The Vietnam conflict has added to the destructive tendencies of American society and tipped the emotional balance of many who live on the borderline of self-control.

Yet man, as Memorial Day underlines, has always been open to physical combat and military means to enforce change. Every century is draped with its black flag of sorrow for those thousands upon thousands who fell victim to warring parties.

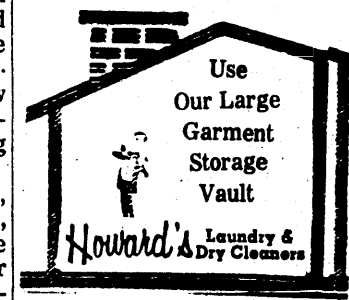

Is our pain greater than; say, those who fell before Napoleon, or were cut down during the Third Crusade? I think so, for we now must absorb every conflict, every upheaval, even every natural disaster that erupts anywhere in the globe.

For the global neighborhood is here, friends. The actions and follies of man around the world are viewed by almost every other person. Communication and transportation technology are great, but so is the price; the consciousness of each man's depravity, need, heroism, and hope.

Never have the poor, the disadvantaged, the deprived been so utterly aware of their condition. The Arab refugee and the Irish lad in Londonderry and the Chicano in San Diego want to be full participants in the rights and responsibilities of man.

If their behavior seems violent and absurd, it may be that they have followed too much the paths of history.

Spark Food Price War

Business World
By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—For years observers of the $95-billion-a-year retail grocery business have watched a process that looked like the gradual dethronement of the old king—the huge A&P store chain.

At the end of March it appeared that the king might have lost his crown. The aggressive Safeway Stores, based in Oakland, Calif., intimidated it might have passed A&P in sales by the slim margin of $3 million in the preceding 12 months. Nobody could be sure because there's a month's difference in the dates of the two companies' reports.

Now the old king has launched a consumer price war that might shake the industry. It could result in A&P's resurgence. It also could lead to heavy losses for A&P and slash profits of some of its major competitors.

If A&P posts a good sales gain when it reports late in June on the first quarter of fiscal 1973, the dethronement will be postponed or averted. That report should tell whether A&P's recasting of image and policy with the new WEO—for "Where Economy Originates"—label is working.

Safeway Sets Mark
Safeway already has set a mark for A&P to shoot at. In the first quarter, Safeway sales jumped to $1.326 billion from $1.173 billion a year earlier.

A&P has had little to say about current sales except that, at the end of the fiscal year Feb. 26, it said sales had been improving steadily for months. Published reports have indicated some spectacular gains for A&P stores already converted to the WEO price policy. Stores that were doing only $80,000 to $100,000 monthly now are said to be doing up to $300,000 a month.

Basically little has been changed except the prices at the 2,600 A&P stores turned into WEO's. But the price cuts have been so dramatic that both Supermarket News and Supermarketing magazine have said a tough price war may be inevitable.

The rest of the 4,200 A&P stores will be converted to WEO's by next February. Even before then, the average profit margin on individual items may be cut from the A&P standard of 21 per cent to the WEO level of 9 to 13 per cent.

Typically this would cut the price of a seven-ounce can of tuna to 45 cents from 53 cents or a 90-cent pound of butter to 83 cents. Virtually all other shelf prices would be cut proportionately.

Curiously, the challenger to the throne is hardly involved in the price war. Safeway and A&P don't compete directly in many cities. But other food chains can be hurt.

Run Neck and Neck
With A&P and Safeway running neck and neck at sales of around $5.5 billion a year according to their most recent reports, the next closest rival is Cincinnati-based Kroger Co.

With $3.7 billion. None of the rest of the Big Ten—Food Fair, Jewel, Acme, Lucky Stores, Winn-Dixie, National Tea and Grand Union—has as much as $2 billion.

Since A&P has had plenty of trouble making profits at higher prices, naturally the question is being raised as to whether bigger sales at lower prices can help the company.

Huntington Hartford, a substantial stockholder in the company and one of the heirs of the founder, has been feuding with A&P's management for 20 years. Asked to comment on the new policy originated by A&P's William J. Kane, Hartford told UPI, "The new motto isn't nearly as good as the company's original motto, 'Where Economy Rules.' 'Moreover, no matter what they do about prices, the company still is controlled by the same coterie that has ruled it for the past 20 years and they are not getting at the heart of the matter. What A&P needs is to separate the company once and for all from the Hartford Foundation and bring in competent professional management. The present management clique is interested in perpetuating itself in power and collecting huge pensions, the sizes of which are concealed from the stockholders.'

A BRAND NAMES MONTH celebration was launched Friday by Ace Hardware stores, winners of the coveted National Brand Names Foundation "Retailer-of-the-Year" award in the hardware category.

The observance got underway with ribbon cutting ceremonies at 10 a.m.; with Mayor Daniel Lahey, right, of Jacksonville and Mayor William Fanning, center, of the village of South Jacksonville sharing the spotlight with store manager Ted Elder.

Throughout the month of June, the store will feature special activities, factory demonstrations and special savings prices on brand name merchandise. Among prominent visitors to the store during the month will be U.S. Senator Charles Percy, Governor Richard B. Ogilvie and other state and local dignitaries.

The Retailer of the Year award presented to George T. Preckwinkle president of Ace Hardware during ceremonies in New York in April, is based on "good retail citizenship, consumer protection, and outstanding brand name merchandising in 1971," according to H. Ford Perrine, president of the Brand Names Foundation.

Twice a certificate-of-distinction winner in previous competition Ace won this year's award under a basic brand policy of offering "only the best ... of merchandise, of service ... and of ourselves."

The liner was scheduled to dock at this French port city at 5:30 p.m. EDT for a 2½ hour layover before completing its trip from New York by crossing the English Channel to Southampton.

In New York, police said they were investigating the possibility the bomb threat was inspired by a short story written for a college creative writing class.

The short story was written by Barbara Shalvey, a Manhattan typist, police said. It involved a bomb threat aboard the QE2 and was read aloud in class Tuesday the day before an anonymous caller telephoned Cunard's New York office demanding $350,000 ransom.

Four British military frogmen, who parachuted to the QE2 in mid-Atlantic, searched the vessel several times while it was at sea, officials said, but did not find any bombs.

Police said they had no plans to search the 65,863 ton vessel during its brief layover in France, but would post extra guards on the dock to keep away the curious.

EPA Will Compromise To Prevent Ford Shutdown

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The threat of a shutdown in new car production at Ford Motor Co. was lessened this past week by a compromise proposal from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

EPA Chief William D. Ruckelshaus said Friday he would let Ford distribute, but not sell, its 1973 cars pending retesting of the vehicles to ensure that they meet current antipollution standards.

Ruckelshaus had told Ford he could not certify the 1973 cars after the automaker reported that tests it had submitted for next year's models had not been done correctly. Without certification, the cars could not be shipped anywhere in interstate commerce.

Ford said that if cars piled up at its factories, it would have to shut down production, throwing as many as 450,000 people out of work at Ford and at related industries.

To solve the problem, Ruckelshaus said he would give Ford cars conditional certifications that would allow Ford to ship its cars to dealers if they met a shorter antipollution test. The cars could not be sold, however, until final certification was granted.

Ford said it had no way of immediately evaluating the effects of Ruckelshaus' proposal, and would have to discuss the matter in detail with EPA personnel.

In another step, the Environmental Protection Agency said all industries would be required to apply whatever technology is broadly usable, regardless of the cost, to control water pollution.

John R. Quarles Jr., EPA assistant administrator for enforcement, said that where water-quality standards demand more money, time and effort, they will have to be applied.

On the economic front, the government announced that wholesale prices rose faster in May than in March and April while the nation's unemployment rate remained unchanged at 5.9 per cent.

On the positive side was news that building awards climbed sharply in April from 1971 levels and factory orders rose last month from previous month levels.

However, machine tool orders during April fell 22 per cent from 1971 figures. And on the international front, Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson forecast that the foreign trade deficit during this quarter will be even worse than the first quarter's record-breaking $1.5 billion.

The Commerce Department said new factory orders edged ahead in April, rising 0.6 per cent from March levels to a seasonally adjusted $63.9 billion.

Inventories, which have been lagging in the current economic recovery, declined, about 0.2 per cent. But a Commerce Department economist said he expected them to come along as soon as sales pick up.

Machine tool orders dropped 22 per cent in April from March, the National Machine Tool Builders' Association said. It noted, however, that they were 67 per cent ahead of 1971 levels, which the industry was particularly hard hit by the recession.

Orders totalled $92.9 million in April, compared with $119.1 million in March and $65.6 million in April 1972.

Regarding foreign trade, Peterson said that even though the second quarter will show the worst figures ever, there should be some kind of pickup in the third quarter.

With imports exceeding exports in April by a seasonally adjusted $69.4 million, compared with March's $584.3 million, the U.S. merchandise deficit for the first four months of this year was worse than in all of 1971, when it totalled a record $2.05 billion.

Hembrough VW Dealership Sold To Solway

The Howard Hembrough Volkswagen dealership has been sold to Jim Solway of Racine, Wis.

Solway, who took over the business Thursday, has been in automobile sales and management for ten years. He also owns a Volkswagen agency in Racine.

Solway also bought the Hembrough Leasing Co. which will be known as the Jim Solway Leasing System.

Solway said he learned the Hembrough business was for sale through the Volkswagen distributor. Solway said he was moving to Jacksonville because he had "never seen such a town with such friendly, cooperative people."

Solway's business manager is Michael Luchachick, formerly of Racine. David Watt, the service adviser under Hembrough, has been promoted to service manager.

Solway said that other long-time employees of the company will remain in their present jobs.

Merritt began his telephone career in the Jacksonville business office in 1963 after graduation from Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington.

He had served in various positions in the Jacksonville, Highland, and Lincoln areas. He has served as Jacksonville district service office supervisor since July, 1971.

Wheat Leads Decline Of Grains In Trade

By ED DE MOCH
AP Business Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures closed generally lower on the Chicago Board of Trade this past week, with wheat leading decliners on a loss of 4½ cents a bushel.

Corn futures were down 2 cents, oats 2½ cents and soybeans 1½ cents.

Soybean oil up to 21 points, soybean meal 120 points and iced broilers 30 points lower to 5 points higher.

After Friday's session had ended, wheat was 3½ to 4½ cents a bushel lower, July 1.43½; corn was 1½ to 2 cents lower, July 1.25½; oats were ½ to 2½ cents lower, July 68 cents and soybeans were ¼ to 1½ cents lower, July 3.50½.

Soybean oil was 12 to 21 points lower, July 11.31; soybean meal was 30 to 120 points lower, July 99.30; and iced broilers were 30 points lower to 5 higher, June 26.65.

Several factors influenced the selling, but the outstanding reason was failure of President Nixon and his aides to return from Russia with an agreement for the sale of agricultural commodities to Russia.

Beneficial rains fell over wide sections of the country early in the week and as fields dried out spring planting was rushed. The winter wheat harvest also expanded with mild weather in the Southwest.

The trade had expected the Moscow conferees to negotiate a pact calling for the sale of up to $250 million worth of feed grains and possibly wheat and soybean products.

The sale of some agricultural products to Russia had been disclosed during the Moscow visit of Mr. Nixon, but it was made clear in Washington that the agreement was outside the area of talks in Russia.

Russia is known to have had a poor crop year in 1971 and also wants feed grains for her expanding livestock program.

Soybeans early in the week were down 5½ cents, but recovered in the last two sessions under new buying and short-covering. Soy oil and meal also improved.

The selling of wheat was strongest in nearby options. Heaviest liquidation came on Friday as disappointed longs relinquished positions in advance of the weekend.

Corn and oats trade was relatively light for the four sessions. Commercial involvement appeared to have been light in both pits and prices generally moved in a narrow range every day.

There appeared to be little outside the market to have influenced iced broiler price movement and trade was dull, mostly on a local basis.

Welcome, But More Rain Is Desired

Illinois farmers got the bulk of their spring planting completed during the past week and then began to search the sky for signs of rain needed to get their crops off to a good start. Scattered showers fell in most areas of the state during the Memorial Day weekend and the early part of this week. Farmers generally welcomed those showers, but most hope for more in the near future.

Here's the way University of Illinois area agronomists and county Extension advisers report the crop and weather situation on May 31:

Southern Illinois
More than one inch of rain fell in the Dixon Springs area Monday night (May 29), reports George McKibben, U. of I. area agronomist at the Dixon Springs Agricultural Center. Area farmers generally welcomed the rain, even though it will keep them out of their fields for a day or two.

Many farmers in the Dixon Springs area are side-dressing anhydrous ammonia now, while they keep an eye on their ripening small-grain fields.

Barley in the area has turned golden, McKibben says. The grain is in the stiff-dough stage and leaves have dropped. He estimates that barley harvest in the area will begin in about a week. The Dixon Springs wheat crop is also beginning to turn and the grain is in the middle-to-soft-dough stage.

Arden Christiansen, U. of I. area agronomist at Brownstown, reports that except for a few isolated soybean fields, most planting in the area is now complete.

Many farmers who have soybeans left to plant are waiting for moisture, he says. Except for a few scattered showers during the past weekend, the area has been dry.

"We had a nice rain in this area Memorial Day (May 29), reports Jackson County Extension Adviser Robert Frank. "And the rain came at just the right time." The area had become extremely dry and crops—especially soybeans—needed rain.

Frank reports most crops are in the ground now—95 percent of the corn and 75 percent of the soybeans. He says that many farmers in Jackson County planted more soybeans and less corn this year, probably because the corn-planting season was delayed considerably and because soybeans are expected to bring high prices this season.

Armyworms are presenting quite a problem in southern Illinois in both wheat and corn fields. And many Jackson County farmers are using aerial spraying to control the pests.

Frank advises farmers to check their fields for armyworms. Treatment is recommended if more than six worms per foot of drilled row are found.

Eastern Illinois
Many eastern Illinois fields needed rain badly by the end of last week, reports Les Boone, U. of I. area agronomist at Urbana-Champaign. Recent scattered showers may have helped the situation in some areas—but more rain is needed.

Boone advises farmers who didn't get nitrogen fertilizer applied before they planted corn to get it on as soon as possible. If planting was completed by mid-May, Boone says there's no reason to cut back on the nitrogen rate. "Shoot for maximum yields," is his advice.

Boone has received some reports of unusual stands and uneven plant size. The condition is apparently not due to insect damage, he says. There's some evidence that lack of aeration due to compacted soil may be the reason.

Western Illinois
"Just about all of the corn and most of the soybeans have been planted in this area," says Carol Chambliss, U. of I. area agronomist at Macomb.

Some of the soybean fields that aren't planted are dry and cloddy on the surface and farmers are waiting for some moisture before they plant, he says.

Western Illinois received a few scattered showers during the weekend and early this week, but there has been no general rainfall over the area. "There's still plenty of soil moisture," Chambliss says. "But the top 2½ inches of soil—where the soybeans seeds need to be placed—are extremely dry."

Chambliss has found a few bean leaf beetles in his experimental plots at Carthage. He hasn't had any other reports and doesn't know if the beetles are widespread in the area.

Northern Illinois
Derrell Mulvaney, U. of I. area agronomist at DeKalb, says the past week was "great" as far as northern Illinois farmers are concerned. He estimates that 75 to 80 percent of the corn and about 30 percent of the soybeans in the area are now planted.

Mulvaney says that many seedbeds were rough and cloddy when planted this year because of conditions earlier in the season. But scattered rains during the past weekend should help soften the soil.

Northern Illinois forage crops—especially alfalfa—look very good, Mulvaney says. Most farmers will start alfalfa harvest soon and expect high first-cutting yields.

Mulvaney says some weed problems are beginning to show up, but generally aren't severe yet. He's had few reports of insect problems in the area.

ASHLAND FFA WINS AREA AG CONTEST

ASHLAND — The Ashland FFA chapter won the Section 14 Ag Mechanics contest which was held recently at Beason.

The Ashland team scored a total of 1218 points which was 70.5 points better than the second place team. The team consisted of Tom Stribling, Richard Lange, Tom Hand, Scott Campbell and Robert Gibbons.

Each student competed in five different areas, each consisting of a written quiz and skill performance task. The areas were Ag Power, Electricity, Welding, Surveying and Carpentry.

Tom Hand was high individual in Welding and Robert Gibbons was high in Carpentry.

The Joshua tree was given its name by the Mormons because the tree seemed to be lifting its arms in supplication, as did the Biblical Joshua.

OUTLOOK

MOST FOODS WILL BE PLENTIFUL

Most of our favorite foods will be abundant during the remainder of this year. Prices will probably trend upward, but will not increase as much as wages and other forms of personal income.

Beef supplies promise to be 4 to 5 percent larger than last year. Farmers and ranchers began the year with a potential of about 4 percent more cattle for market than last year. Average slaughter weights will probably be up 1 or 2 percent. For this year as a whole, the beef supply is expected to be around 116 pounds per person, 3 pounds more than last year. Prices will depend largely on the amount of money consumers are willing to spend for beef.

Pork supplies will be larger than usual, but not up to last year's record level (73 pounds per person). Many hog producers suffered heavy losses a year ago and quit the business. Consequently, pork output is expected to be down about 5 percent from the 1971 volume. Even so, pork supplies per person probably will be greater this year than at any other time since 1952—except for last year.

Broiler production is expected to run 4 to 6 percent larger this year than in 1971. The number of broilers placed in a recent eight-week period was 5 percent greater than one year before. Broilers will be most plentiful during June and July. The supply for the year will be at least a pound more per person than the 41.6 pounds available last year.

Turkey growers are producing 4 to 5 percent more of the big birds than they were last year. The supply per person may be close to 9 pounds. In 1971, it was 8.5 pounds.

Egg production so far this year has been larger than in 1971, but output in coming months is expected to be slightly less than during the same months of last year.

Milk output has been running 1 to 2 percent greater than last year. Supplies have been in excess of market needs, so the government has been buying surplus dairy products to maintain prices. There will be more than enough milk and cream to make all of the ice cream, butter, cheese, and other dairy products that consumers are willing to buy.

Fish supplies were shortened last year—only enough for 11.2 pounds per person, six-tenths of a pound less than in 1970. Some fishing areas have been worked too hard, and the catches have not increased over those of 1971.

Would Abolish Grain Inspection Division

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie proposed today that the legislature abolish the state grain inspection division and give most of the function to private agencies.

The division, which charges fees for its work, has been losing money at the rate of nearly half a million dollars a year. Ogilvie said the transfer will save about $350,000 a year.

Ogilvie proposed the Agriculture Department keep inspection personnel to work at four downstate locations but contract the inspection work at Chicago to private agencies through the federal government.

The downstate locations are at Casey, East St. Louis, Fairfield and Shawneetown.

In 1969, the federal government assumed jurisdiction over the licensing and supervision of all personnel engaged in grain inspection service. The state has continued performing the service under an agreement with the federal government. Ogilvie's announcement said. The gradings of grain quality and moisture content are done mainly for grain dealers and the Chicago Board of Trade, he said.

About 70 employees currently are employed by the division, Ogilvie said, and about a dozen will be transferred to the division of markets to continue the downstate inspections.

World Wheat Trade Sets A New Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final statistics for 1970-71 show world wheat trade was the most in four years, the Agriculture Department reports.

The volume totaled 53.8 million metric tons, compared with 51.6 million in 1969-70, according to a report issued by the Foreign Agricultural Service. Smaller wheat crops in Western Europe and the re-entry of the Soviet Union into the import market were cited as major factors in the increase, the report said.

As a result, the major wheat export nations were able to increase wheat shipments. Officials said Australia accounted for 26 percent of the 1970-71 world wheat export increase; the United States 20 percent; and Canada 28 percent.

Shipments from Argentina, France and Spain declined because of reduced production.

ASC Officials To Confer With USDA

State committeemen and state executive directors of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will meet in Washington July 11, 12, and 13 with officials of USDA to participate in a review of commodity, conservation and land use programs, it was announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A major part of the agenda will be devoted to the set-aside programs for wheat, feed grains, and cotton — part of the Agricultural Act of 1970, now in its second year of operation. Administration of the set-aside programs during 1970 and 1971 will be evaluated, and plans for their implementation during 1973 will be discussed. The Agricultural Act of 1970 expires at the end of the 1973 crop year.

Outline Rules For Set-Aside Acres

Some principal requirements in set-aside acreage provisions of the 1972 farm programs have been outlined by a local farm program official in response to continuing questions from farmers.

The 1,300 plus farmers in Morgan County signed up in the feed grain and wheat programs have a vital interest in knowing and complying with set-aside rules in order to earn full farm program payments, according to R. G. Leavell, chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

The purpose of set-aside in the feed grain and wheat pro-

13-Year Locust

Heavy emergence of 13-year locusts has been reported in southern Illinois. The locusts cause damage to trees as they split small branches to pocket their eggs. They prefer oak, hickory, apple, peach, and pear trees and grape vines. Damage may be severe in newly planted orchards or shade trees.

Sevin will control the locusts and should be applied when egg laying begins within a few weeks after the locusts emerge from the ground.

The 13-year periodical locusts, now emerging, hatched in 1959, fell to the ground and burrowed below the surface to feed on tree roots. Now they are emerging to start a new brood.

Your county Extension Adviser has further information on the pest in Entomology Fact Sheet NHE-113 put out by the Illinois Cooperative Extension Service and the Illinois Natural History Survey.

Strawberries
On a reducing diet? Then eat strawberries for flavor and nutrition without taking on a load of calories. "One cup of unsweetened strawberries has only 55 calories." This is what is said in University of Illinois circular 1056, Tips on Picking and Using Illinois Strawberries.

This new circular could be used by pick-your-own strawberry farms to give to their customers. It tells how to pick and care for berries. It is loaded with mouth-watering strawberry recipes.

Your county Extension Adviser will have copies of this new circular.

A new type hay stacker was used recently at the Dixon Springs Agricultural Center. The machine makes round stacks as it moves through the field picking up hay from windrows.

The stack frame, sixteen feet in diameter with steel mesh side walls, turns like a merry-go-round as the machine moves through the hay field. The turning frame catches hay as it is picked up and pushed through the loading chute. The loading chute moves from the center to the side of the circular frame and carries a packing wheel which continually presses the hay.

Waxy Corn Found A Superior Feed For Steers, Lambs

Waxy corn produced faster gains and more efficient feed conversion than regular corn in four recent University of Illinois livestock feeding trials.

E. E. Hatfield and W. L. Brame, U. of I. animal scientists, compared waxy corn to regular corn in two metabolism and growth trials with lambs and two feedlot trials with yearling steers. They found daily gains and feed efficiency significantly improved with the waxy corn in all of the feeding trials.

The U. of I. researchers fed diets consisting of nine-parts waxy corn or regular corn and one-part fortified supplement in all the trials. They formulated the diets to contain 13 percent crude protein with supplemental protein from soybean meal or a combination of soybean meal and urea.

In the lamb-feeding trials, the researchers found protein digestibility, daily gain, and feed efficiency significantly improved when waxy corn replaced regular corn in the lambs' diets. The average daily gain for lambs fed waxy corn was .55 pounds compared to .53 pounds for lambs fed regular corn. Feed per pound of gain averaged 3.6 pounds for lambs fed waxy corn compared to 4.2 pounds for those fed the regular corn diet. Supplemental nitrogen had no effect on gains in the lamb-feeding trials.

In the steer-feeding trials, Hatfield and Brame found that steers fed waxy corn gained significantly faster and more efficiently than those fed the urea-soybean meal supplement. In two feeding trials involving 108 yearling steers, the average daily gain for steers fed waxy corn with soybean meal was 3.71 pounds compared to 3.38 pounds for steers fed regular corn with soybean meal. Steers fed waxy corn plus a urea-soybean meal supplement had an average daily gain of 3.31 pounds compared to 3.26 pounds for steers fed regular corn plus the urea-soybean supplement.

Feed per pound of gain for the steers fed waxy corn with soybean meal averaged 5.5 pounds compared to 5.9 pounds for those fed regular corn with soybean meal. And the feed per pound of gain for steers fed waxy corn plus urea-soybean meal supplement averaged 5.9 compared to 6.0 for those fed regular corn plus the urea-soybean meal supplement.

The animal scientists say that the difference in performance of waxy corn compared to regular corn is probably due to the energy content of the grain, not the protein level. Waxy corn is a specialty crop used in instant pudding mixes, glues and other industrial uses that require branched-chain starches. It is usually grown on contract. But during the 1971 corn season, several farmers grew waxy corn because normal-cytoplasm waxy corn seed—seed resistant to southern corn leaf blight—was available. The feeding results some of those farmers attained spurred the U. of I. studies.

"Farm Bureau," the national farm leader said, "favors the sale of farm and industrial products in world markets whenever it will advance the best interests and security of the U.S."

"In any proposed sale to communist countries, including the Soviet Union and Mainland China, we favor such sales only when made by the private trade on strict commercial terms without credit guarantees by any agency of the U.S. government. Such sales should be made only when consistent with our national security."

A Visit To Panther Creek

A hundred years ago W. A. (Matt) Summers and C. H. (Cad) Allard were mighty busy trying to launch a Republican weekly in Cass county, and make it pay.

And they were doing it, with increased circulation and advertising each week and ere long the Virginia GAZETTE was the largest newspaper in the county.

One day Matt caught the morning train and spent the day in his old home town, Chandlerville. He had been a soldier in the well-known Co. K, 3rd Illinois Volunteer Infantry, raised in and around Chandlerville by the later Gen. Charles E. Lippincott, a son-in-law of Dr. Charles Chandler.

The first story appeared the following Thursday:

ACCOMPLISHED AT LAST— The people of Chandlerville have been for the past ten years agitating the question of a wagon bridge over the Sangamon river at that point, and they have often tried different means to raise funds for the purpose of building a bridge which was directly to benefit them, and indirectly to benefit all of Mason and Cass counties.

They eventually had to abandon the idea of receiving county aid. When they found there was no possible chance of receiving aid from that direction, they did the most sensible thing they could have done under the circumstances. They put their hands in their pockets and produced the funds to the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, and proceeded with the work which is now complete and ready for use.

After they had accomplished this much, and completed the bridge they found that there was still money needed to build the approaches to the bridge from both sides of the river.

In this emergency they again had recourse to their pockets and raised three hundred and fifty dollars more money, and all that is now lacking is a grade across the bottom to make this new highway always passable. For this purpose the county has made an appropriation of two thousand dollars and the work goes bravely on.

All that the people of Chandlerville now want is for the public to know that this highway is open for their accommodation, and in common with them, enjoy the fruits of public spirited enterprise.

The Chandlerville bridge stands to-day a lasting monument to mark the united efforts of a community that is not afflicted with "court house on the brain."

Virginia really had "court house on the brain." At the time many of the most important people in town thought of little else except how to get it moved from Beardstown to the center of the county, Virginia.

In the next issue Summers told of the growth of old Panther Creek, as the place was first called. The grateful residents renamed it in honor of Dr. Chandlerville with a giant barbecue, shooting match and fandango Aug. 20, 1856.

Judging from Summer's account old Panther Creek was truly on the boom:

A LIVE TOWN In pursuance to a previously arranged plan, we paid Chandlerville a short visit for the purpose of once more meeting the friends of yore, and to look after the interests of the GAZETTE in that section.

We found Chandlerville enterprise as lively as ever, and different from most of small places in one respect, it is free from the curse of "cliques" or "rings," and all hands seem to be looking forward with the single view to advancing the interests of the town.

One of the blessings of the town is they have no local feud with any other section of the county, they begrudge no locality their prosperity and they recognize the fact that to break down the interests of one locality will not advance them on the high road to permanent prosperity.

As to the business men of the place, they are keenly alive to every interest and ready to take advantage of every favorable circumstance that will advance the interest of the whole.

A good example of their pluck is the erection of the bridge over the Sangamon river, for the construction of which every dollar was raised by private subscription. This with them is "bread cast upon the waters that will return," as it has opened up a new field for Chandlerville competition, and makes the town of easy access to parties in Mason county, who have had no market of easy access.

Prominent among the business men we find Pilcher & Son, Dick & Son, Way & Bro., and Skaggs & Co. in the dry goods business; Chandler & Son, in the drug and medicine business; P. Neff in the grocery business;

Marney Bros. in the grocery and confectionery business; Philo T. Norton in the stove and hardware business; H. T. Chandler & Co. in an agricultural depot.

These are but a few of the leading business houses, there are many others that we have not room to mention.

The citizens of the place are agitating the question of establishing a newspaper and the perfect unity with which they meet the question, regardless of party considerations, points to ultimate success as a reward of their efforts.

Many valuable improvements are talked of, among which is a brick block, with store rooms below, and hotel above, and a brick business house by Dr. Chandler.

There is one hotel now in the place, kept by Bevier Bros., who we can heartily recommend to the traveling public as thorough gentlemen, besides being blessed with the peculiar qualification of "knowing how to keep hotel."

For other facts touching the business of Chandlerville see our Chandlerville advertisements.

With such items as these it's no wonder the Virginia GAZETTE had the largest number of subscribers of any paper that landed in old Panther Creek.

Drinking, Singing

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — "I worked in the fields for 100 years and that's enough," scowled Katarina Dimkova, sitting in the shade of her cherry tree. She claims to be 124 years old.

Petrana Kostova, a neighbor, talked of her life of "love and drinking and singing and working." She says she is 112 years old.

Bulgaria counts 800 centenarians—citizens over the age of 100. The government says that, with 8.5 million inhabitants, Bulgaria has more centenarians per capita than any other country.

For anyone over 84, however, there is no way to prove people are as old as they say. There was no registration of births in Ottoman-ruled Bulgaria until 1888.

Centenarian Survivors New figures are published every spring, listing those centenarians who "survived" the winter and the 100-year-old newcomers.

This year's figures listed, in addition to the 800 centenarians, 1,540 95-to-99-year-olds and 6,400 90-to-94-year-olds.

Katarina, who lives with relatives, sits under her cherry tree most of the day, keeping out of the family's way.

She had eight children. How many are still living? "Only one and I don't like the looks of him. He's not as healthy as he should be and he isn't even 80," the old lady said.

When Katarina's visitor leaves, she manages a small smile. "Don't mind my scowl," she says. "I've had it all my life."

Petrana Kostova lives with her grandson's family and still helps in the kitchen. She says she hasn't had a day's illness in the past 15 years and talks of a fun-filled life.

Never Tired "I used to be very beautiful," the wrinkled old lady said with a laugh. "I dated all the officers. I never got tired, always dancing."

Martiza Denchevna, who claims to be 114 and lives in a Sofia old folks home, can't remember much about her family—her husband and two children died "about 60 years ago." She reads without spectacles and feels "quite well."

Female centenarians outnumber males three to one in Bulgaria.

Dr. Borek Soinev, a government specialist on centenarians, says this is explained by the biological structure of women whose bodies "produce more life-restoring cells than a man's body." But he also adds that extreme old age is "mostly a matter of heredity."

BLUFFS — The Women's Society of the Bluffs United Methodist Church met June 1st at the home of Mrs. Paul H. Vannier with Mrs. Ruth Main assisting.

The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Margaret Watson who read The Rebirth of Joy by Bishop Lance Webb. Roll call was answered by nine members. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and filed.

Mrs. Watson read information from the Division concerning the reorganizing of the society. Mrs. Agnes Pine, treasurer, presented the information concerning the pledge and action was taken.

All were thanked for taking part in the party at the Scott County Nursing center on May 23.

Mrs. Watson assisted by Mrs. Donald Morris, Mrs. M. C. Goldsborough, Mrs. Vannier and Mrs. Harold Oakes presented the lesson for the day, World Culture - World Community, which was followed by an interesting discussion.

The meeting closed with an article from response on Faith. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

There is a new greenhouse on the market that is 6 1/2 inches long, 4 1/2 inches wide and 5 inches tall. We planted ours and in less than three days some of the seeds had sprouted in their warm, moist hothouse on the window sill.

This new plastic item is an improvement on the last year's "seedstarter" (developed by Jiffy Products).

The seedstarter enables you to start 40 plants from seeds simultaneously. You can sow at least five different varieties in the five starter rows in the 1 1/2-inch-deep plastic tray.

"Miracle soil" sticks are inserted into tiny compartments. They swell as they absorb the warm water poured into the tray. Two or more seeds are planted in each pocket. Only large seeds need be pushed below the surface.

As directed, we put the greenhouse in temperature of 75-80 degrees, out of direct sun. After seeds germinate, and the first leaves form, the greenhouse can be moved to a sunny window, giving them full daylight and 65-70 degree temperature.

After the "soil" is moist, water must stand only in the gutter. Do not overwater. Permit only one plant to grow in each pocket, snipping off others with tiny scissors.

Transplant to larger containers or into the garden when the seedlings can be handled easily. They'll slip right out of the pockets in their growing medium when the side is removed.

A red apple named Prima has been introduced jointly by the agricultural experiment stations of Indiana, Illinois and New Jersey. It is the first cultivar released under the cooperative breeding program of Purdue, Rutgers and Illinois.

The tree is reported well-suited for early fall fruit and ideal for home grounds planting. It is spreading and vigorous, flowers in midseason, a few days ahead of Golden Delicious, and is resistant to fireblight and apple

Remove all debris from the bed and destroy it in spring. When peonies appear, spray with a protectant fungicide, such as bordeaux, repeating in 10 days. When peonies are a foot tall spray the foliage every two weeks with a fungicide such as captan, maneb or zineb. And in fall, cut off all above-ground growth and destroy it. This year the corn will be tested in New York state and seven countries, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Mexico, Kenya, Nepal and New Zealand.

The selections were made from among nearly 1,000 corn varieties obtained from Russia, Canada, Japan and other areas.

The aim is to produce cold-resistant varieties able to withstand freezes in the fall or early spring anywhere in the world, especially in high elevations. This would permit April planting in temperate areas and expansion of the corn planting zones.

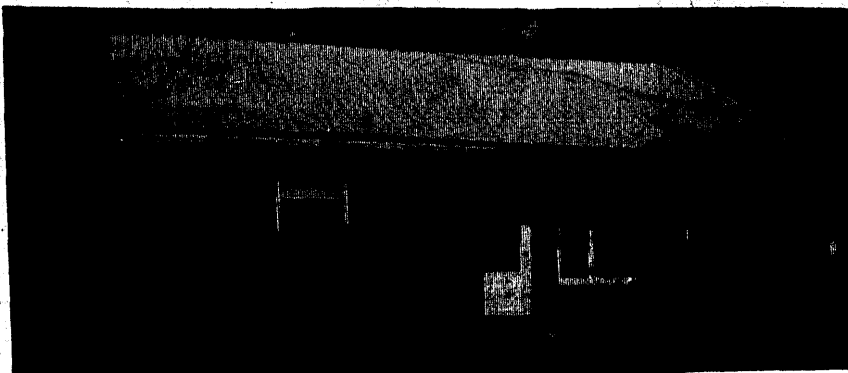

Factors being investigated in association with cold tolerance are the seed's germination ability; ability of the seedling to grow under abnormally low temperatures, and resistance to frost conditions at a later stage of growth. Put them all into one variety and you have a winner.

Is No Panacea; It Still Takes People

By JOHN B. MARTIN

The managerial form of city government under consideration in Jacksonville is expected to be brought to the referendum stage by late September or early October. Most of the information presented by the committee favoring the change to city manager form of government has been favorable to

There is some evidence that small pockets of opposition to the change may be cropping up throughout the community. Generally, one finds at least two sides to every question — sometimes more.

The managerial form of city government is no panacea designed to provide "instant success" in any segment of city government. Nobody has really said as much, least of all those who are promoting the managerial form. It still takes people to operate city government whether it be fourteen aldermen and a mayor or as few as four aldermen, a mayor and city manager.

Quality of People
Promoters of the city manager form of government say putting all the administrative decisions on the shoulders of a city manager will relieve the burden on the elected aldermen and mayor, thus making the job more appealing to a higher type individual. Plus, it gets the position out of partisan politics.

Lee Roy Jackson, chairman of the committee promoting city manager form of government, has an effective, thought-provoking question for anyone who is a non-believer: "Think of anyone in the city who you would like to see run for alderman or mayor — don't tell me who he is — just think of him. Now, tell me, do you think he would rather run as a non-partisan candidate under our form of government or under the present setup?" How could anyone fail to agree?

First of all, if everything was going well at city hall Jackson and his committee would have difficulty getting an audience. Also, one immediately has visions of "something better" so there's very little comparison.

Solons May Extend Budget Bill Session

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois General Assembly, still wrestling with multimillion-dollar money bills, appears intent on extending its budget-making session until June 16.

In interviews, House Speaker W. Robert Blair and other leading lawmakers indicated last week that the legislature most likely will not conclude its business by the original target date of June 9.

"The time has come in the session for the Democrats to indicate to us what they want to do," Blair, a Park Forest Republican, told a news conference.

A split in the General Assembly (with the Republicans controlling the House and the Democrats the Senate) has made passage of any legislation over the last two years a difficult process.

Among key issues likely to spark tough negotiating and oratorical bursts in the last two weeks of the legislative session are:

—Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's $561 million capital development bond plan, which would drastically alter the method in which the state finances construction of its physical facilities. Republicans whisked it through the House committee stage so quickly that Democrats have thrown up a roadblock. The measure now is bogged down at the amendment stage.

—Rival plans for state aid to common schools. Ogilvie is supporting a formula that would furnish $788 million in pupil aid and State Schools Supt. Michael J. Bakalis urges a $911 million proposal.

—Personal property tax relief. Most election-year schemes for easing the tax burden on such key voting or political blocs as farmers and the elderly have been sidetracked in the Senate. But the issue remains alive.

—The proposed equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution. A deep-rooted and intense battle has developed over this ban on discrimination against women. The measure has passed the Senate and the fight now is in the House.

On capital development bonding, an unglamorous issue but one that affects a big chunk of everybody's tax dollar, both Blair and Ogilvie remain optimistic of passage.

In fact, the Republicans have adopted an "underscoring" strategy on the floor of the House, aimed at dramatizing the implications of the capital development bond controversy.

Under this strategy, every time a money bill in which funds are tied to the bonding plan is approved by the House, the Republicans plan to point to the connection.

This, they say, will show the other side that it is voting for appropriations that can be realized only for proceeds of the capital development bonds.

Currently, the state uses revenue bonds issued by the Illinois Building Authority to finance construction of its hospitals, prisons, universities and states have ratified the ERA.

The ERA, already passed by the Senate, won a test vote last week in the lower chamber and Blair predicted flatly that it will pass before the close of the session.

The sex discrimination ban drafted by feminists 49 years ago and passed by Congress this year goes to the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday and is signs are that it will get a favorable report. So far, 18

England Mourns Death Of Duke

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth and the royal princes and princesses, like any family in time of grief, gathered around the bereaved Duchess of Windsor Saturday to comfort her on the 35th anniversary of her marriage to the Duke of Windsor.

The 75-year-old duchess, still strained and tired, did not attend the queen's official birthday parade—the trooping of the colors—Saturday. But her slim figure in a black dress was at a window of her suite in Buckingham Palace as the queen rode off to pay unprecedented tribute to the man who gave up a throne for love.

A black armband on the sleeve of her crimson guards' jacket, the queen, on horseback, led an escort of household cavalry from the palace to Horse Guards parade. There, with her consent, the ceremony started with a roll of drums, a minute's silence and a lament played by pipers in memory of the duke.

All officers wore bands. The drums were draped in black. Later the queen messaged their commanding officer, praising the trooping and adding: "I was also very much moved by the act of remembrance for his royal highness, the Duke of Windsor."

While the nation—including the duchess—watched this annual spectacular on television, thousands formed a queue outside historic St. George's chapel at Windsor, where the 77-year-old duke lay in state a few feet from the effigied tombs of his father and mother, King George V and Queen Mary.

Queen Elizabeth, her husband Prince Philip and daughter Princess Anne visited the chapel in early afternoon. They spent six minutes in silence, heads bowed, before the casket. Nearly 30,000 passed by the casket, which was draped with the duke's personal red and gold standard, Friday—more than double the number expected. Despite the cold gray day, another large crowd was certain Saturday. Many more floral offerings arrived, although there was only one on the coffin itself, a cross of white lilies from the duchess.

In London, the new-found family of the duchess that had never accepted her fully during the life of the duke—a fact that led to his self-exile—continued to try to make up for lost years.

At the direct request of the queen, who is also head of the established church, the highest prelate of the churches of England and Scotland will take part in the duke's funeral Monday.

The queen has also asked the duchess, who planned to return immediately after the funeral to Paris, where her husband died last Saturday, to stay on at Buckingham Palace for a few more days. The duchess' arrival at the palace Friday was the first time she had been invited to stay with her husband's family.

Navy Plane Crashes Killing 14 Crewmen

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—A U.S. Navy plane crashed in northern Morocco Saturday killing all 14 men aboard, said a Navy spokesman at 6th Fleet headquarters in Naples.

He said the four-engine P3 Orion submarine patrol craft crashed into the side of a 2,700-foot mountain south of Agadir, Spain, about one hour after taking off from the Rota Navy base in southern Spain.

The spokesman said a Navy helicopter with medical personnel flew from Rota to the crash scene. Crewmen radioed there were no survivors.

First reports of the crash came from Spanish fishermen, who saw the plane crash and explode in a ball of flame. Responding to these reports, the British frigate HMS Zulu sent a helicopter to the scene and informed Rota that at least five bodies were sighted among the wreckage.

The Navy spokesman said the plane belonged to Squadron VP44 and was on a routine patrol. He said the aircraft was deployed to Rota from its home base at Brunswick, Maine.

He said the cause of the crash was not known, but a board of investigation will be appointed.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Yeager of Roodhouse drove to Nebo where they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen. Monday visitors at the Yeager cabin at Sunset Lake, Girard, were a nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Melichar and daughter and friends, Mayor and Mrs. Don Milhorn and daughter, all of Swansea.

Could Lead To Further Accords

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S.-Soviet agreements to limit strategic nuclear weapons could spur progress toward other disarmament accords and strengthening of the East-West detente in Europe, State Department officials said Saturday.

They said the negotiating atmosphere had improved measurably as a result of the two pacts reached at the Moscow summit—a treaty covering defensive antiballistic missile (ABM) systems and an executive agreement for a ceiling on offensive land-based and submarine-launched nuclear missiles.

Because of these agreements, officials said, three upcoming negotiating sessions might move forward more easily. The first, expected to begin sometime this fall, will be the next phase of the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. Dubbed SALT II, they will deal with numerous measures left out of the agreements President Nixon reached in Moscow with Soviet leaders.

Further improvement of relations in Europe probably will depend in large part on two sets of negotiations likely to get under way early next year: —Bargaining between members of NATO and the Communist Warsaw Pact aimed at reduction of troop and force levels in Europe.

—The Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, long sought by the Soviet Union. Convening in Helsinki, it will focus mainly on trade plus exchanges of scientists, scholars and information.

Officials said prospects for headway at these negotiations also appeared brighter in view of the recent nonaggression pact between West Germany and the Soviet Union and a Big Four agreement to improve communications in and around Berlin. Secretary of State William P. Rogers headed back to Washington Saturday after signing the Berlin agreement for the United States.

There was tension but no outright panic during the hijacking.

"We weren't threatened," said Navy Senior Chief Yeoman Ronald Dellinger, 37, of Chula Vista, Calif. "He always seemed interested in us."

The hijacker was angry when FBI officials trying to buy time for an assault on the plane communicated with him from the Kennedy tower.

"It doesn't matter to me if I die here, right now, or a little later," he snapped at authorities. Later, he said, "You're not around with no dumb nigger."

Authorities were heard via a police radio trying to disguise FBI agents as a copilot and maintenance man. They also schemed to smuggle a gun into the cockpit of the plane in a place known to the navigator, who boarded the plane in New York for the trans-Atlantic flight.

Neither effort was carried to completion.

The hijack is eclipsed in distance only by the 7,500-mile hijacking of a Braniff 707 by Henry Lee Jackson from Texas to Buenos Aires last July.

Marine Cpl. Raphael Minichiel hijacked a Trans World Airlines plane from Los Angeles to Rome in 1969 over a distance of 6,714 miles.

The Reno hijacking came after all 24 passengers had left the United 727. The hijacker, hooded and armed with a .357 magnum pistol, waited more than four hours with two crewmen and three stewards as hostages while authorities collected between $125,000 and $200,000 ransom from Reno gambling tables and tried to repair the plane's engine.

Impatient for takeoff he fired one shot.

After switching to a second plane he parachuted from 14,000 feet in pitch dark near Washoe Lake outside Reno. Six hours later a posse staking out a car in the area arrested Reno parking lot attendant Robb D. Heady, 22. They said he had injured his elbow and chest and lost the loot during his jump.

In Honduras, Frederick William Hahnemann, 49, of Easton, Pa., surrendered, saying he feared for his life. Hahnemann was sought as the hijacker who commandeered an Eastern Airlines plane May 7 at Allentown, Pa., picked up $303,000 ransom at Dulles International Airport in Washington and parachuted with the loot into a Honduran jungle after switching planes in New Orleans. The ransom was not recovered.

After switching to a second plane he parachuted from 14,000 feet in pitch dark near Washoe Lake outside Reno. Six hours later a posse staking out a car in the area arrested Reno parking lot attendant Robb D. Heady, 22. They said he had injured his elbow and chest and lost the loot during his jump.

In Honduras, Frederick William Hahnemann, 49, of Easton, Pa., surrendered, saying he feared for his life. Hahnemann was sought as the hijacker who commandeered an Eastern Airlines plane May 7 at Allentown, Pa., picked up $303,000 ransom at Dulles International Airport in Washington and parachuted with the loot into a Honduran jungle after switching planes in New Orleans. The ransom was not recovered.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S.-Soviet agreements to limit strategic nuclear weapons could spur progress toward other disarmament accords and strengthening of the East-West detente in Europe, State Department officials said Saturday.

They said the negotiating atmosphere had improved measurably as a result of the two pacts reached at the Moscow summit—a treaty covering defensive antiballistic missile (ABM) systems and an executive agreement for a ceiling on offensive land-based and submarine-launched nuclear missiles.

Because of these agreements, officials said, three upcoming negotiating sessions might move forward more easily. The first, expected to begin sometime this fall, will be the next phase of the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. Dubbed SALT II, they will deal with numerous measures left out of the agreements President Nixon reached in Moscow with Soviet leaders.

Further improvement of relations in Europe probably will depend in large part on two sets of negotiations likely to get under way early next year: —Bargaining between members of NATO and the Communist Warsaw Pact aimed at reduction of troop and force levels in Europe.

—The Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, long sought by the Soviet Union. Convening in Helsinki, it will focus mainly on trade plus exchanges of scientists, scholars and information.

Officials said prospects for headway at these negotiations also appeared brighter in view of the recent nonaggression pact between West Germany and the Soviet Union and a Big Four agreement to improve communications in and around Berlin. Secretary of State William P. Rogers headed back to Washington Saturday after signing the Berlin agreement for the United States.

There was tension but no outright panic during the hijacking.

"We weren't threatened," said Navy Senior Chief Yeoman Ronald Dellinger, 37, of Chula Vista, Calif. "He always seemed interested in us."

The hijacker was angry when FBI officials trying to buy time for an assault on the plane communicated with him from the Kennedy tower.

"It doesn't matter to me if I die here, right now, or a little later," he snapped at authorities. Later, he said, "You're not around with no dumb nigger."

Authorities were heard via a police radio trying to disguise FBI agents as a copilot and maintenance man. They also schemed to smuggle a gun into the cockpit of the plane in a place known to the navigator, who boarded the plane in New York for the trans-Atlantic flight.

Neither effort was carried to completion.

The hijack is eclipsed in distance only by the 7,500-mile hijacking of a Braniff 707 by Henry Lee Jackson from Texas to Buenos Aires last July.

Marine Cpl. Raphael Minichiel hijacked a Trans World Airlines plane from Los Angeles to Rome in 1969 over a distance of 6,714 miles.

The Reno hijacking came after all 24 passengers had left the United 727. The hijacker, hooded and armed with a .357 magnum pistol, waited more than four hours with two crewmen and three stewards as hostages while authorities collected between $125,000 and $200,000 ransom from Reno gambling tables and tried to repair the plane's engine.

Impatient for takeoff he fired one shot.

CHICAGO (AP) — A special committee concluded hearings Friday to determine sites for community-based correctional centers proposed by Peter B. Bensinger, director of the Illinois Department of Corrections.

Arthur Huffman, secretary of the committee, said the committee will meet Saturday in executive session to review the testimony of 99 witnesses who appeared at the hearings in six cities: East St. Louis, Rockford, Decatur, Peoria, Moline and Chicago.

Huffman said a decision on the sites may be reached Saturday but added that three additional areas—Waukegan, Lawrenceville and Quincy—have also expressed interest in locating a center.

All the testimony was generally favorable to the concept except that given Thursday by the president of the John Howard Association, a prison reform group.

Julius L. Hemmelstein told the committee the construction of any new centers is "premature" before a reform of the parole system in Illinois. He said such reforms may reduce the state prison population from one-third to one-half and make of four such centers unnecessary.

Huffman said he was surprised by Hemmelstein's testimony in so far as the executive director of the association was appointed a member of the committee and at no time expressed opposition.

A series of bills allocating $16 million for the project is pending before the General Assembly.

Illinois Senate Democrats Cut Ogilvie Budget

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Two appropriations in the budget of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, their total cut by nearly a third by Illinois Senate Democrats screening spending plans, moved to the Illinois House Friday.

Unanimous votes passed a $3.5 million appropriation for the State Fair and $2.7 million for the operation of the Department of Business and Economic Development for fiscal 1973.

Earlier this week, a Democratic task force in the Senate appropriations committee knocked $2.2 million from the State Fair budget for new construction. The amount was to be funded by Ogilvie's proposed new Capital Bond Development Act.

Although Republican sponsors had protested in the committee that the cut would find Illinois with the leading livestock exhibition but the poorest facilities in the nation, the reduced budget was passed without argument in the Senate itself.

Another task force cut eliminated advertising from the economic development budget. The cut was $700,000.

The Senate appropriations committee is scheduled to begin considering major items next week in the Ogilvie administration's $7.4 billion budget.

The Senate adopted a House-passed bill authorizing the University of Illinois and other state universities to contract for televising of intercollegiate sports not subject to exclusive broadcast rights.

A MARXIST "CHRISTIAN"

NEW YORK (AP) — Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende Gossens, has a large wooden crucifix in the living room of his home, United Methodist Bishop Raimundo A. Valenzuela of Chile, reported on a visit here.

"I could see that the crucifix had great meaning for him," the bishop said, quoting Allende as saying:

"The closer the churches are to God, the closer they will be to my government."

Dr. Hendrickson Writes Article On Pana Philanthropist

Dr. Walter B. Hendrickson, Professor Emeritus of History at MacMurray College, is the author of an article, "John Wickliffe Kitchell, Prairie Philanthropist, Conchologist, and Patron of the Arts," in the Spring Edition of the Illinois State Historical Society Journal.

In his article Professor Hendrickson points out that although we most often hear of such patrons of the arts and philanthropists as the Armours, the Fields, and Yerkes, there were many men of lesser wealth in small communities who made significant contributions. Among these men was John W. Kitchell of Pana, Illinois. Kitchell built a fortune of several hundred thousands of dollars, retired as lawyer and landowner, and devoted his attention to the collection of fine paintings, rare books, and natural history objects, particularly beautiful shells.

He and his wife also contributed generously to local charities, the public schools, the hospital, and community improvements, among other things providing Pana citizens with a fine park, a hard road, and a famous statue of Lincoln.

The book, shell, and picture collections remained in the Kitchell home in Pana until the death of Mrs. Kitchell, who had willed the paintings and the shells to MacMurray College where she had been a member of the class of 1860. The book collection, containing three incunabula (books printed before 1500), and many finely bound and illustrated books of the 18th and 19th centuries, went to the University of Illinois.

A major part of the 130 pictures collected by Kitchell was twenty fine examples of the work of James F. Cropsey, a well-known 19th century American landscape painter, whose works are currently popular among museums and collectors. The MacMurray collection is one of the largest in private hands, and has received the attention of historians of art. The Cropsey paintings are today displayed in the home of President and Mrs. John J. Wittich where interested persons may see them.

Professor Hendrickson declares that many smaller communities across the United States have enjoyed the philanthropies of their citizens, and have had their art and other cultural advantages greatly enriched. Certainly Jacksonville is one such city where the names of Samuel Nichols, Dr. David Strawn, and many others come to mind.
